CHAIRMAN'S PREFACE.

The Reports contained in this volume again show a steady record of useful and progressive work in the fine range of buildings in William Brown Street, which, with their branches through the City, constitute the Municipal home of Literature, Science, and Art.

Taking the Libraries alone, no one who visits the Reference Library, filled every day from morning till evening, with its hundreds of quiet, persistent readers, can fail to recognise that if that were the only field of the Committee's activities their work would be of the utmost value to the community. Works of fiction, which are by some wrongly supposed to constitute the chief attraction in a Public Library, find no place there, and yet during the year there were issued to readers, in that one Library, 427,000 volumes, mostly in the sections of History, Topography, Politics, and Art.

In all departments of the Committee's work there was an increase in 1910, the most marked development being in the books for children in the Lending Libraries. The issue of these in 1910 exceeded that in 1909 by no fewer than 109,000 volumes. The policy of the Committee is to induce the children to use the Libraries while still at school, and to keep them as readers when they grow up.

The only new Library opened during 1910 was that at the Rawdon Reading Room, the immediate success of which was remarkable, as the issues at once reached an average of nearly 3,000 volumes a week.

The present year will have a much larger record of new Libraries and Reading Rooms completed.

There is still one area which needs such provision, that of the district round Hornby Street, where the Corporation's Model Dwellings are now housing thousands of people. There is an admirable site available, with frontages to Limekiln Lane and Hornby Street, where a Library, Reading Room, and Lecture Room could be erected, in conjunction possibly with a Gymnasium. Such a building would be of the greatest benefit to that thickly-populated neighbourhood. There is reason to believe the Committee could obtain the site as a gift if the building could be provided. For this they can only look to private generosity. It would be the fitting completion of their scheme of Libraries and Reading Rooms, and they anxiously hope they may be enabled to carry it out.

That the Museums are continuing to attract and satisfy the public is shown by the increase in the average attendance by more than 100 a day over that of 1909. It is a remarkable fact that for the past sixteen years the additions made to the Museum Collections, mostly by gift, have averaged 23 per working day. Many of these are, of course, of small value, but many are of very considerable worth, both in money and scientific interest. Schemes set on foot last year for a re-arrangement of some of the collections have since been more fully developed, and when they are completed the Museums will be rendered even more popularly attractive and scientifically interesting. The allocation of a good room entirely for the display of local antiquities has long been needed, and has now been made.

The presentation of the Museum Report by Dr. Clubb, as Curator, is a consequence of the resignation of Dr. Forbes, who had been Director of the Museum for 16 years, during which he rendered valuable service in the arrangement of the new buildings.

Important changes were made in 1910 in the Walker Art Gallery in the reconstruction of the Rooms on the Ground Floor, the provision of new Cloak Rooms, and the removal of the turnstiles. There can be no doubt that visitors much appreciate the privilege of free and unimpeded access to public buildings, and the early removal of the turnstiles from the Museum Entrance is also in contemplation. Every one of the buildings under the Committee will then have its doors wide open to the public.

The Art Galleries became the richer in 1910 by the addition of 284 pictures, etchings, and other works of art, as against 195 in 1909. The Curator in his Report again emphasizes, and rightly so, the increasingly urgent need there is for an extension of the Galleries, so as to obviate the present unfortunate necessity for taking down the Permanent Collection before the Autumn Exhibition can be placed.

The Committee find it an anxious and difficult task, on their restricted income, to carry on and keep thoroughly efficient the varied and increasingly numerous Institutions under their charge. It must be borne in mind that nearly all the recent additions to them have been made to carry out statutory obligations undertaken by the City Council in the several recent extensions of the City.

The Institutions which the Committee have now to carry on include a Reference Library of 158,152 volumes, 11 Lending Libraries with a total annual issue of 1,597,123 volumes, Reading Rooms, some attached to the Libraries and some not, with an average daily attendance of many thousands, 185 Evening Lectures to audiences numbering last year 81,160, and Museums and Art Galleries receiving 856,000 visitors in the year. Their efforts to make all these varied and valuable Institutions of the greatest possible benefit to the City will be maintained to the fullest extent, but they may find it necessary to ask for some additional help in doing so.

May I add that the responsibility for the somewhat late date of issue of this volume is entirely mine. The officials had their Reports ready some time ago, but, owing to various circumstances, it has, I regret to say, been impossible for me to sooner provide this usual preface.

FRANK J. LESLIE,

CHAIRMAN.

CHIEF LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

I respectfully submit a report of the work of the Libraries and Reading Rooms, and Lectures Sub-Committees, during the past year.

A comparison of the statistics in the appended tables with those for the preceding year will show a decrease which, fortunately, is more apparent than real. The Picton Reading Room was closed for one month for painting and decoration, while the Patent Specification Room, the Central Lending Library, and the Kensington Branch Library, were also closed for one month for structural alterations, &c. Every effort was made to carry on business during the alterations, but it was quite impossible to meet the ordinary demand. While the Picton Reading Room was closed the Reference Library work was transferred to the Brown Reading Room, and only the newspapers left available for the frequenters of that room. By this arrangement the inconvenience caused by the closing of the Picton Reading Room was considerably minimised, but the ordinary issues in the Brown Reading Room and the Hornby Library were entirely suspended, and those in the Reference Library greatly diminished. That there has been no reduction in the work of the various departments of the Reference Library is shown by the fact that while the actual daily issue in 1909 was 1,289 volumes, that in 1910 was 1,324 volumes.

I have re-arranged the tables of statistics which it is customary to include in the Annual Report, and in the case of the Reference Library separated the figures showing the actual issue from the approximate estimates, while in the case of the Lending Libraries I have included actual issues only and excluded the approximate estimates. Owing to the increased facilities given to the public to consult books statistics are failing to adequately show the great extent of the work done in the Reference Library and Branch Library Reading Rooms, particularly the former. For instance, the Blue Books and Parliamentary Papers are now displayed in the Picton Reading Room as soon as received, a change which has called forth appreciative comments from Readers. But while a much larger number of people are thus enabled to see these important publications they cease to be included in the over-counter issues, and only an approximate estimate of their use can be formed. The same remarks apply to the displays of books on such topical subjects as Free Trade, Finance, Government, &c. (during the General Elections): Agriculture (at the time of the Agricultural Show); King Edward VII., Orchardson, Holman Hunt, and Mark Twain.

To accurately record the issues in full without affecting the unrestricted use of the books would be very difficult and very expensive, while the result would not be worth either the money or the labour involved. The books are purchased for use rather than to have their use statistically recorded. Therefore, in studying the appended figures it should be understood that they only partially show the work accomplished.

CLASSIFICATION STATISTICS.

At a time when Public Libraries (particularly the Lending Departments) are subjected to so much criticism for their comparatively large issues of fiction, it is appropriate to draw attention to Tables II and V wherein are shown the classification of issues in our Reference and Lending Libraries. Of the total issues in the Reference and Lending Libraries (Children's Libraries excepted), 57 per cent. were prose fiction; while of the total issues for Home Reading only (Children's Libraries excepted), 77 per cent. were prose fiction. In considering these figures it should be remembered that novels are not added as soon as published, and that every care is taken to exclude those to which general exception may be taken on moral grounds. Whatever criticism may be passed on the extent of the fiction issues the Libraries Committee are justified in taking credit for the serious side of their work, a side which critics so repeatedly overlook. Libraries which during the year have recorded issues of 36,317 volumes in Theology and Ethics; of 171,265 volumes in Fine Arts, Music, and Technical subjects; 87,021 volumes in History and Biography; 82,699 volumes in Topography, Antiquities and Travels; 20,087 volumes on Political subjects; and 29,036 volumes of Poetry and Drama, ought not to be criticised as if the circulation of novels was their only work, and the circulation of novels wrong.

JUVENILE DEPARTMENT.

The development of the work in the Children's Libraries is in every way satisfactory. The issues for 1910 from this department exceed those for 1909 by 109,010 volumes. This increase is mainly due to the opening of the Rawdon Library, where the issues to Juveniles have amounted to 59,971 volumes, but there has been an increase at all the Branch Libraries except Toxteth. In addition, there was a large issue of volumes in the Children's Reading Rooms at the various Branch Libraries. The total issues for home reading from the Children's Libraries have increased from 148,981 volumes in 1906 to 399,590 volumes in 1910. These figures are of more than passing interest, as the extent of the work of our Children's Libraries has not been hitherto fully recognised, either locally or generally. The credit for this development is willingly shared with the Teachers in the Council Schools.

CATALOGUES.

Considerable progress has been made with the Reference Library Catalogue. All books added to the Library since January 1st, 1910, have been included in the combined catalogue which is gradually being prepared for the printer. In addition, entries have been typed for inclusion in the card cabinets in the Picton Reading Room, and also for the Sheaf Catalogue which will supersede the card cabinets. Progress is also being made with the cataloguing of the books added to the Reference Library between 1891 (the date of part 3 of the printed catalogue), and December 31st, 1909. As soon as these arrears have been dealt with, the duplication of entries for the card cabinets and sheaf catalogues will cease, and progress will consequently be more rapid. The amount of work to be accomplished is very great, and must take several years. The importance of it, as well as the urgency, are fully recognised, but the Committee feel that it would be a serious mistake to sacrifice accuracy for speed. The result of one year's work has, however, justified the Committee in augmenting the cataloguing staff and making arrangements which, while securing continuity for the work, will accelerate it.

In addition to the work on the main catalogue of the Reference Library, other important cataloguing work is in progress. The Coleman deeds relating to Lancashire and Cheshire (numbering 418), which the Committee purchased in January, have been calendared by Mr. John Brownbill. Sheaf catalogues (typed) of the prints and portraits in the Hornby Library are well advanced, while a hand-list of books of reference in the Picton Reading Room has been printed, and indexes to Parliamentary publications and other series have been compiled. Catalogues of the books in the Dépôt, in the Wavertree Branch Library, and of the books in the Juvenile Departments of the Everton and Toxteth Libraries, have been published during the year.

The Committee have complied with the suggestions of the West Lancashire Association Territorial Force, and added to the already large collection of works on military subjects in the Libraries. Purchases have also been made to meet the requirements of various reading and educational classes.

During the winter various societies have visited the Reference Library, when displays of books on their special subjects have been made. Amongst these societies may be named the Artists, the Brickworkers, the Historic Society of Lancashire and Cheshire, and the National Home Reading Union. In this way Students had opportunities to obtain knowledge of the literature on their subjects, and the subsequent demands in the Picton Reading Room proved that the opportunities had been utilised.

LENDING LIBRARIES.

The Central Lending Library has been enlarged by adding to it a part of the room in which the Patent Specifications and Files of Newspapers are consulted. This alteration has been most successful, both as regards the convenience of the public and the health of the staff. The work of this Lending Library has been thoroughly re-organised, and the books carefully examined. Over 2,400 soiled and worn-out volumes have been withdrawn, 1,500 of which have been replaced by new copies. The whole Library has been re-classified on the Dewey system, and a new catalogue is being compiled. This work has been carried through under considerable difficulty. Except for the comparatively short period that the Library was closed for the structural alterations, the books have always been available for the public. Structural alterations have also been made at the Kensington Branch Library, and the building painted and cleaned. This is the oldest of our Branch Library buildings and the time had arrived to make improvements which would equip it to properly meet the demands the tables of statistics prove the public make upon it.

The Rawdon Lending Library was formally opened by Councillor William Evans, J.P., in February, and the issue of nearly 134,000 volumes in the succeeding eleven months proves that a library in the Anfield district was wanted.

The work of weeding out the soiled and worn copies of books in the Branch Libraries has been continued and over 7,000 volumes have been withdrawn. This work will now be taken up systematically and the stocks in all the Branch Libraries be thoroughly overhauled in succession. During the past year the books in the Central Lending Library were dealt with; in the ensuing year the stocks of the Walton and Sefton Park Libraries will have to be prepared for the new buildings now in course of erection; and afterwards the older and larger collections in the Toxteth, Kensington, and Everton Branches will receive attention in turn.

The first year's work of the Lending Libraries' Depôt has been most encouraging. In addition to the circulation of 5,600 volumes, the exchange of books between the various Branches has been greatly facilitated by it. The collection of Foreign Literature for issue to Borrowers in the Branch Libraries has been increased and placed in the Depôt. The advantages of a central collection of high class literature from which all the Lending Libraries may draw are obvious, but its successful working depends to a certain extent on the Librarians of the Lending Libraries, and therefore the demands made on the Depôt collection will demonstrate at which of the Branches Students are personally assisted by the Librarians.

BANK HOLIDAYS.

In compliance with a request by the City Council, the Reading Rooms at the Kirkdale, Kensington, and Garston Libraries were opened on the Easter, Whitsuntide, and August Bank Holidays as an experiment. Notwithstanding the fact that the opening was extensively advertised in the Libraries and the Newspapers, the attendances were too small to justify the Committee in recommending the regular opening of the Reading Rooms on Bank Holidays.

NEW LIBRARIES.

New buildings for Libraries in Sefton Park and Walton and Fazakerley, and a Reading Room in Stanley Road (generously presented by Dr. Carnegie), are now approaching completion, and will be opened to the public during the year 1911.

The plans for the Sefton Park Library and the Stanley Road Reading Room were prepared by the Corporation Surveyor. The Committee decided to invite local Architects to submit designs for the Walton and Fazakerley Library. Twenty-five designs were received. W. E. Willink, Esq., F.R.I.B.A., was appointed assessor, and made the following awards:—

Messrs. Briggs, Wolstenholme & Thornely—First Premium.

Mr. Wynne Jones—Second Premium.

Mr. Taliesin Rees—Third Premium.

BLIND READERS—
BORROWERS FROM THE CENTRAL LENDING LIBRARY.

Messrs. Briggs & Co.'s design was thereupon adopted, and the work of erection proceeded with.

On October 13th, the Lord Mayor (the Rt. Hon. W. H. Williams), on behalf of the Library, Museums and Arts Committee, presented to Miss Mary L. Hornby a silver casket containing a vellum scroll upon which was written the resolution of thanks the City Council had unanimously voted for her numerous and valuable donations to the Public Library of books in Braille type for the use of blind readers.

I take this opportunity to draw attention to the cramped conditions under which the varied work of this department is at present carried on. Apart from the question of storage of books which will have to be considered by the Committee in the near future, the provision of improved accommodation for administration calls for immediate attention. There is no office accommodation in the building, yet the amount of clerical work and bookkeeping entailed by the administration of the Reference Library and eleven Lending Libraries, the Free Lectures, and the letting of the Picton and Small Lecture Halls, is very great. At present most of this work is done in a room that should be reserved for the use of Readers who apply to refer to the rare and valuable books it is undesirable to issue in the General Reading Rooms.

LECTURES.

The Free Lectures provided for the public in various parts of the City numbered 165 for adults, and 20 for children. The attendances amounted to 81,160. The reduction in attendances compared with previous years was principally caused by the General Elections occurring in the midst of the sessions.

THE MUSEUMS.

I beg to furnish the Fifty-eighth Annual Report upon the CONDUCT and PROGRESS of the Museums.

1.—GENERAL.

Since 1896, a period of fifteen years, 89,500 specimens of Natural History and 11,756 specimens of Ethnography, totalling over 100,000 specimens, have been added to the collections, or an average of nearly 7,000 additions per year.

The following table shows the total number of visitors to the Museums during the year, compared with that of the year 1909:—

					1909. (261 Days.)		1910. (262 Days.)
Total Visitors	453,164	...	481,494
Weekly Average	8,714	...	9,259
Daily Average	1,736	...	1,837

The attendance of School Children under the charge of teachers has continued, and the latter have availed themselves of the Clause in the Education Code, whereby time devoted to instruction in Museums reckons as school attendance. School Teachers make frequent use of the Museum theatre to give special lessons to their pupils—specimens being brought from the Museum cases for illustrating them.

Twenty-four lectures were delivered by members of the Staff and others on Monday evenings in the lecture theatre of the Museums, specially dealing with the various collections in the Institution. They were illustrated by specimens and lantern slides. The number of Visitors to the Museums on these Monday evenings totals 8,380, of which a large percentage attends the various lectures.

In all sections of the Museum considerable progress may be recorded. To the Exhibition Galleries, in addition to the general conservation and maintenance of specimens already there, numerous important additions have been made, and many descriptive and illustrative labels have been added, to aid alike the general visitor and the student.

In the Lord Derby Museum a collection of heads of African Big Game, many mammalian skulls and a large number of Birds, Reptiles and Fishes have been mounted and placed on exhibition in the General Collections of the Upper Galleries. In the British Galleries five additional Bird Groups, with natural surroundings, have been placed on exhibition, and an important and much-needed case, illustrating, among other sea birds, the changes of plumage of the Herring Gull, from the chick, through successive years, to the adult plumage of the fifth year, has also been added. Many fluid preparations of Invertebrate animals have been prepared and exhibited. The collection of British Beetles has been completed so far as the Museum specimens afford.

The work of reducing to skins, for study purposes, the large number of mounted specimens of Mammals, Birds, Reptiles and Fishes, not required for exhibition purposes, mostly belonging to the original Derby Collection, was completed, and enabled the Committee to dispense with the services of the taxidermists temporarily engaged for that work. Upwards of 8,000 skins were thus dealt with.

In the Botanical and Geological Departments useful work has been done. The examination and arrangement of the very large Herbarium, acquired last year from the Botanic Gardens, Edge Lane, is a big task, but it is a very necessary work before the collection can be incorporated into the Museum Herbarium.

An interesting case of examples of Native Nitrates ("Caliche") has been added to the Mineralogical Gallery.

In the Mayer Museum the Melanesian Section continues as hitherto to receive numerous acquisitions from West and South-West Africa through the efforts of Mr. Ridyard. Mr. Ridyard has paid special attention (by request) to the procuring of examples illustrative of the primitive potter's art as now carried on in Africa, an art gradually disappearing owing to the introduction of European metal ware. The usefulness of many of the objects in the African Section for trade purposes is evinced by the reproduction of designs on native cloths by a local firm, and the copying of designs by Manchester calico printers.

The Gallery of objects illustrative of the natives of Races of the Pacific Islands has been cleaned, painted and arranged, and again opened to the public. Much care has been taken to illustrate the use of the exhibits by means of photographs, drawings and prints. The introduction of a new prism glass has been most successful, the use of artificial light (except on very dull days) being entirely dispensed with.

The housing of the Ceramic Collections has received the Committee's attention and an order placed for new cases, which will shortly be available.

The new staircase leading to the Mayer Basement is a great improvement, and has opened up much better communication with the Aquarium and Ethnographical Gallery.

On the occasion of the visit of Prince George of Connaught to open the Agricultural Show a selection of Ceramics was lent to Newsham House, and highly appreciated.

Professor Newberry has loaned a number of small objects to illustrate early glazes, and Mr. Gordon Saies a group of Chinese Blue and White Porcelain.

Several examples of Liverpool Pottery and Porcelain have been acquired by purchase, notably a unique Porcelain Mug, by Gilbody, obtained at the Thoms sale.

The Catalogue of the Egyptian Collection has been compiled and is now ready for printing. This important piece of work has been carried out by Professor Newberry, M.A., Brunner Professor of Egyptology in the University of Liverpool, assisted by Miss M. E.

Williams. The Museums Committee has already expressed its high appreciation of the services so kindly rendered by Professor Newberry, and I desire to take this opportunity of associating myself with this expression.

I have much pleasure in acknowledging the conscientious work and generous co-operation of all members of the Staff.

JOSEPH A. CLUBB,

CURATOR OF MUSEUMS.

Mary L. Gore.

"THE BALLOON"

Purchased

REPORT by E. RIMBAULT DIBDIN, Curator of the WALKER ART GALLERY.

The Curator has the honour to report in reference to the work during the year 1910 of the Department under the direction of the Art and Exhibitions Sub-Committee.

During the year, the City's Permanent Collection of Works of Art was on view as much as possible, consistently with the demands of exhibitions, but each year it is found more difficult to do it adequate justice, and any attempt of systematic arrangement of the whole collection is practically impossible, so long as it is necessary to move the greater part of it at least twice a year. The need for a large extension of the Art Gallery referred to in the Curator's annual report for 1909 is fully realised by the Chairman and Committee, and it has been the subject of anxious consideration from time to time. It has not been found possible as yet, however, to surmount the financial obstacles. Meantime, progress has been made, so far as funds have been available, with the Curator's scheme for utilizing to the utmost the possibilities of the existing building. The west front room on the ground floor has been entirely reconstructed and redecorated, a valuable addition to it being made by taking in the small front room, formerly used as a gilder's workshop. This has not only increased the wall space, but greatly improved the lighting. The heating-pipes in the dado have been removed, and radiators in the centre of the floor have been substituted; the Gallery, therefore, now possesses one room in which pictures may be hung without a risk of undue deterioration from unscientific heating; except that there is still one unsatisfactory part where a furnace flue is carried up behind the wall.

The panelling of the walls, the improvement of the lighting by the use of prismatic glass, and the introduction of a deep white frieze, have greatly increased the illumination, and rendered it possible to arrange and show pictures in a satisfactory manner. Additional hanging space has been provided by the introduction of four screens designed by the Curator, and the floor has been relaid with oak. Three decorative lunettes made at the Della Robbia Pottery, Birkenhead, and presented in 1907 by Mrs. George Holt, were successfully utilised as over-door decorations. On the completion of the alterations, which are generally admitted to be satisfactory, the Curator assigned the room to the display of the Roscoe Collection, deposited by the Trustees of the Royal Institution, and to other Foreign Old Masters, which are the property of the Corporation.

Towards the end of the year there was commenced a further section of the work contemplated, which has now been brought to completion, with very satisfactory results. A new and commodious cloakroom, with adequate accommodation for all departments of its work, has been evolved from waste space in the cart-yard; and, in connection with this, a door has been opened into the east back room, and a new staff door has been opened to the yard, thus obviating the necessity previously existing for a circuitous descent to the basement to reach it, which for many years has involved unnecessary risk and caused trouble and loss of time in the movement of works of art.

The telephones have been rearranged, with an exchange in the cloakroom, and the old cloakroom, now closed, will be valuable as an addition to the east front room, which is now being reconstructed on lines similar to those adopted in the case of the west front room.

By resolution of the Committee on 17th October, 1910, the turnstiles at the entrance to the Gallery were removed, and this, as well as the closing of the old and most inconveniently situated cloakroom, has met with general approval.

Alfred Parsons, R.A.

"ON THE BURE AT WROXHAM."

Purchased.

Unfortunately, the resources of the Sub-Committee will not admit, during 1911, of the much-needed reflooring and redecoration of the entrance hall, which would complete the renovation of the ground floor, except as regards the introduction of a much needed passenger lift.

By resolution of the Committee on 22nd August, 1910, the ceramic fountain in room A was removed; and the room was redecorated, with good results as regards its improvement for the exhibition of works of art. The staircase leading from room F to the large room on the ground floor, known as No. 10 Room, was also redecorated. New velarium blinds were fitted in rooms A. and F.

The spacious new workshop for gilders, made in 1909, has proved invaluable in the work of repairing frames, supervising pictures, and otherwise keeping the contents of the Gallery in good order. In this connection the following work was carried out:—

Two mildewed water-colour drawings, No. 75, "By the side of the Bog of Allan," by Albert Hartland, and No. 80, "Landscape with Sheep," by Birket Foster, R.W.S., were restored.

New frames were provided for No. 815, "'Twixt night and day," by R. P. Richards, No. 822, "The Gleaner," by William Daniels, No. 830, "La Vie Paysanne" (triptych miniature), by Cecil Jay, and No. 841, "Study," by W. L. Windus.

The frames of the following were re-gilt:—No. 123, "Evensong," by Mark Anthony, No. 357, "The progress of intemperance" ("The Relapse" and "The invitation to drink" from this series), by E. V. Ripplingille, No. 668, "The Burning of Shelley's Body," by L. E. Fournier, and No. 822, "The Gleaner," by W. Daniels.

Pictures relined and cleaned:—No. 821, "Joan of Arc," and No. 822, "The Gleaner," by William Daniels.

New plate glass was provided for No. 819, "Perseus and Andromeda," by Lord Leighton, P.R.A., and No. 668, "The Burning of Shelley's Body," by L. E. Fournier.

A glass case was made to enclose No. 817, "Mors Janua Vitæ" (plaster model), by Alfred Gilbert, M.V.O., and a case for the display of keramics was purchased.

1,062 exhibition frames, purchased for the Albrecht Dürer Exhibition, were added to stock.

The following pedestals, etc., designed by the Curator, were provided for the display of sculpture:—One large pedestal, with surrounding small pedestals attached, four upright pedestals, one screen for pictures and three small block plinths.

Under the agreement with the Trustees of the Royal Institution, the work of conserving the Roscoe Collection made further progress, with the approval of Dr. Edgar Browne, and Dr. R. Caton (on behalf of the Trustees). Seventeen frames were re-gilt and repaired, and six pictures were specially cleaned and repaired.

The cost of this work amounted to £99 15s. 7d.

The collection of sculpture was cleaned by expert workmen, the Warwick Vase (copy), injured by a visitor, was repaired, the pictures in Branch Libraries were inspected, inscriptions were written on the frames or mounts of 92 pictures, &c.

A special display of pictures in Newsham House was arranged by the Curator, and the walks outside the Gallery were re-gravelled in anticipation of the visit of the Prince and Princess of Wales, which, however, did not take place, in consequence of the death of H.M. King Edward VII.

Bird’s eye views of Liverpool and Manchester in 1859 and 1860 (water-colours), by John R. Isaac; deposited by Richard Isaac, Esq.

The Permanent Collection has thus during 1910 been enriched (apart from pictures lent) by the addition of 284 works, viz.:—

By deceased artists.

7 paintings in oil.

217 ,, and sketches in water-colour.

1 miniature.

1 bronze statuette.

1 marble figure.

9 etchings.

By living artists.

- 6 paintings in oil.
- 7 paintings in water-colour.
- 1 picture in pastel.
- 3 miniatures.
- 4 bronze statuettes.
- 20 etchings.
- 1 wood engraving.
- 2 pen and ink drawings.
- 4 keramic pieces.

These additions, so far as acquired by purchase, were bought with the funds of the Autumn Exhibition; no money from the rates having for many years been expended in the purchase of works of art for the Permanent Collection.

The purchases of 1910, as regards contemporary art, have been made with the design, so far as funds permitted, to acquire examples of various art tendencies, and of different mediums and styles.

The Committee have also, from the exhibition fund, bought one bronze statuette, four oil paintings, one miniature, and a collection of drawings and sketches by deceased painters, chiefly with the object of enriching our collection of works by local artists: a most important duty of every provincial art gallery, but one for which no money is specially provided in Liverpool. The Committee have been fortunate in finding their efforts in this direction generously seconded by donors; and, during 1910, the total additions in this section numbered 10 paintings in oil, 1 in water-colour, 1 miniature, 1 etching, two sets of drawings and sketches, numbering respectively 62 and 152 examples, and two bronzes.

There are now 1,166 items in the list of the Permanent Collection, of which 126 are at present on loan to public buildings in the City, viz., Town Hall, 34; Newsham House, 24; Central Library, 20; Kirkdale Library, 9; Everton Library, 7; Wavertree Library, 12; Toxteth Library, 4; St. Martin's Hall, 1; Calderstones House, 14; Museum, 1.

Preliminaries have been arranged for the adequate cataloguing of the Permanent Collection. A scheme and estimates have been prepared for the consideration of the Committee, and it is hoped that the work may be undertaken during the current year.

The experimental opening of the Gallery on Saturday evenings until 8 o'clock, during the months October to May, inclusive, having proved satisfactory, was continued. Sunday opening has been, as hitherto, from 2 to 4.30 p.m. during the same period.

During the year, rooms have been used for the following special exhibitions:—

1. Exhibition of work by students of the Liverpool City School of Art—from 29th January to 12th February.

2. The Art of Albrecht Dürer: a collection of reproductions of his paintings, engravings, drawings, and woodcuts, brought together and arranged in chronological order by Sir W. Martin Conway, M.A., F.S.A., F.R.G.S.—from 16th April to 1st August.

3. The Centenary Exhibition of the Liverpool Academy of Arts—from 28th May to 25th June.

4. Exhibition of Canadian Art, under the auspices of the Royal Canadian Academy of Arts—from 4th to 23rd July.

5. Fortieth Annual Autumn Exhibition of Modern Art—from 19th September, 1910, to 7th January, 1911.

On account of the value attaching to the notes by Sir W. Martin Conway in the Dürer Exhibition Catalogue, a special and revised edition on hand-made paper, limited to 50 copies, was printed after the close of the Exhibition, and of this sufficient copies have already been sold to repay the cost.

The Autumn Exhibition was open during 95 days and 65 evenings, from 19th September, 1910, to 7th January, 1911. The catalogue comprised 2,445 items, as against 2,300 in 1909, and the collection was similar in plan to that of 1909, including amongst its special features a room devoted to Continental art, a complete exhibition of works (100 in number) by members of the Royal Society of Miniature Painters, a very important black and white section, and a collective exhibition of works by members of the Pastel Society.

The Continental section was for the first time adequately shown by its transference to Room B, which gave more space for an effective arrangement.

The Subscription Banquet at the opening of the Exhibition, instituted in 1909, was repeated on 16th September with great success, there being 140 ladies and gentlemen present, including the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress of Liverpool, the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress of London, the Lord Mayor of Manchester, the Hon. J. L. Griffiths (American Consul-General in London), Mr. George Hearn, of New York, Sir Alfred East, A.R.A., P.R.B.A., Mr. W. H. Lever, Mr. J.Y. Dawbarn, M.A. (President of the Liverpool Academy), Sir George Frampton, R.A., Mr. A. Bruce-Joy, and Mr. James Paterson, R.S.A.

The attendance of the public at the Exhibition, which showed distinct diminution as compared with the previous year, was as follows:—

At one shilling (95 days).....	20,296
At Sixpence (54 evenings)	10,551
At Threepence (11 evenings)	9,879

258 works were sold, the catalogue prices of which amounted to £3,973 16s. 0d. In addition to the official catalogue, an illustrated edition was, as usual, published by Messrs. D. Marples & Co., as well as a set of seven pictorial postcards of prominent pictures. The Committee had valuable professional assistance in the preparation of the Autumn Exhibition from Messrs. Alfred Parsons, A.R.A. (now R.A.), James Paterson, R.S.A., and Gilbert Rogers, of the Liverpool Academy of Arts.

Season ticket holders' soirees were held on 14th October and 18th November, at the former of which there were present the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor, the Lady Mayoress, and other civic dignitaries, and the Curator delivered a "Talk" on "The Progress of Colour Photography" (with lantern illustrations). On each occasion there was a programme of vocal and instrumental music.

During the exhibition, a series of "Talks on Art" was given gratuitously by a number of gentlemen in the Exhibition on Friday afternoons (with the exception of the first-mentioned, which was delivered in the evening), and these proved a very attractive feature. The following is a list of the "Talks":—

Date.	Lecturer and Subject.	Chairman.
Oct. 14th	The Curator—"The Progress of Colour Photography."	The Right Hon. the Lord Mayor (Alderman W. H. Williams).
Oct. 21st	Dr. H. N. Harrington—"Sir F. Seymour Haden, P.R.E.."	John Lea, Esq., J.P.
Oct. 28th	H. E. Rensburg, Esq.—"Artists and their Work."	John Lea, Esq., J.P.
Nov. 4th	Edmund Rathbone, Esq.—"The Art of presenting Pictures in a Public Gallery."	John Lea, Esq., J.P.
Nov. 11th	The Curator—"As others see us: some notes on Critics."	P. Charles Kelly, Esq.
Nov. 18th	William Archer, Esq., M.A.—"Spanish Cathedrals."	R. Hield, Esq.
Nov. 25th	Sir Edward Russell—"Sir William Agnew."	F. J. Leslie, Esq., F.R.G.S.
Dec. 2nd	George T. Shaw, Esq.—"Public Libraries and Art."	R. C. Herman, Esq.
Dec. 9th	J. G. Legge, Esq., M.A.—"Art Criticism: Old and New."	F. C. Bowring, Esq.
Dec. 30th	The Curator—"Why should we look at Pictures?" (Also delivered on the evening of 15th December to the University Art Students' Association, in the Exhibition.)	Joseph Bibby, Esq., J.P. J. G. Legge, Esq., M.A.
Jan. 6th	Gilbert Rogers, Esq.—"Modern Art and the Autumn Exhibition."	The Curator.

The public interest in the Gallery, as exhibited by the attendances, was well maintained throughout the year. The number registered by the turnstiles up to 26th October, 1910, was 296,260, as contrasted with 291,926 to the same date in 1909. Thereafter the turnstiles were removed.

The attendance of students during the year numbered 1,346. Six new students' tickets were granted.

CHAIRMAN'S PREFACE.

The appended Reports of the Chief Librarian and the Curators of the Museums and Art Galleries, will be found full of interest, as illustrating the important part taken by those Institutions in the daily life of a great City. The fact that the use made of the Lending Libraries alone is, in its proportion to the total population, three times what it was thirty years ago, will have its significance for the future historian of social progress. And he will assuredly not ignore the statistics which show that, although the number of Borrowers from those Libraries increased, in the year now under review, by 4,000, the issue of works of Fiction for Home Reading dropped by 30,000, while the issues in such departments as History, Biography, Antiquities, and Foreign Literature, were largely increased. The returns from the Reading Rooms show the same feature, the Prose Fiction asked for being only 37 per cent. of the whole issues, as against 63 per cent. in other classes. Without any wish to question the value of sound Fiction as one of the great branches of Literature, we must gratefully welcome the growing popularity of other and even more important branches. It is pleasing to know that this result may be largely traced to the increasing interest taken by School Teachers in advising their pupils as to the books they should read.

Last year the Committee completed and equipped the new Reading Room in Stanley Road, and two new Libraries for the districts of Sefton Park, and Walton and Fazakerley. The signal success of all these, especially the Sefton Park Library, has been most gratifying to the Committee, and although, for the first time in Liverpool, readers have been allowed free access to the shelves the immunity from loss proves once more that if you trust the public and let them know that you trust them, you will not be disappointed.

Each of the two New Branch Libraries is a finer and better stocked building than many a large town's Central Library, and it was a great delight to us all that one of them, the Sefton Park Library, was opened by Dr. Carnegie himself, to whose generosity we owe these and other equally fine Library buildings which now adorn this City. The compliment of his admission to the Civic Freedom was deservedly paid to him on the occasion of his visit, and his eloquent and touching address in reply will long live in the memories of those privileged to hear it. The provision, now in hand, of Reading Rooms at Old Swan and in the Edge Hill District will complete the series of munificent gifts by Dr. Carnegie to the City.

In the Museums the scheme of improvements in hand has made good progress. In the new " Liverpool Room " many of the Views, Maps, and Plans, intended to illustrate the annals of the City, have been installed. The Committee are anxious to make this local collection as complete as possible. This they can only do by drawing upon private collections to supplement their own, and they would be grateful to the owners of any objects of interest for the gift or loan of them. Mr. Robert Gladstone, Junr., and Mr. A. H. Arkle have, from their intimate knowledge of local history, rendered much help to the Committee in the arrangement of this Room.

The Rooms recently allocated for housing the Egyptian, Cretan, and Hittite Collections are in course of arrangement, and will soon be completed. For valuable aid in this work, and for the provision of many objects of great interest and worth, the Committee are indebted to Professors Bosanquet, Newberry, and Garstang, who have given the Museum the full benefit of their skilled knowledge and experience.

That the Museums continue to be appreciated, both by experts and by the general public, is evidenced by the numerous gifts of additions to the Collections, averaging 20 a day throughout the year, and by an average daily attendance of 1,500 visitors.

In the Art Gallery 110 additions have been made to the Permanent Collection, either by gift or purchase. The first duty of the Committee, entrusted to it by the Council, is undoubtedly the care and safety of the very valuable Permanent Collection of Works of Art possessed by the City. It has been this consideration which has induced the Committee to spend a large sum during the past three years in the improvement of the ground floor rooms. The Curator refers in his Report to this work, and I may say it is the intention of the Committee to continue it.

The Curator's reference to the absence of any fund at the disposal of the Committee for the purchase of pictures, except the uncertain surplus of profit there may happen to be from the Autumn Exhibition, is a timely one. In other cities, and notably in Manchester, there is a fund annually voted by the City Council, and immediately available at any moment for the purchase of a Masterpiece of Art. When such an opportunity occurs there is sure to be keen competition, and the buyer who can first close the bargain is the one who gets it. In Liverpool the City Council has, during the past forty years, made no contribution at all towards its own Art Collection. Some alteration in the position of the City in the Art world as a possible purchaser is much to be desired, and the best way of securing it is now under consideration.

The Entrance Halls of both the Art Gallery and the Museum require renovation; and the Committee hope during the present year to make a beginning with this and other much needed work on the various buildings in William Brown Street.

During the year under review the Committee lost by death two much valued colleagues: Alderman J. N. Stolterfoht, who had rendered excellent service for eleven years as Chairman of the Libraries Sub-Committee; and Professor Sir Rubert Boyce, F.R.S., whose wide experience and erudition were most helpful to the Committee in nearly all departments of their work.

FRANK J. LESLIE,
Chairman.

HISTORICAL SUMMARY.

CHIEF LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

Gentlemen,

I respectfully submit a report of the work of the Reference and Lending Libraries during the year 1911.

The attached tables of statistics shew that 2,253,777 volumes were issued over the counters in the Reference Library, Lending Libraries, and Reading Rooms. In addition, it is estimated that there has been a use equal to an issue of over half a million volumes of the books placed on open shelves in the Reference and Branch Reading Rooms.

The figures for the Reference Library may be regarded as normal. Nearly twenty-three thousand more volumes were issued than in 1910, the smaller figures for that year being accounted for by the fact that the Picton Reading Room was closed for one month for painting.

The issues from the Lending Libraries shew a nett decrease as compared with the previous year of 25302 volumes to adults, and a nett increase of 6488 volumes to juveniles. The decreased issues to adults are neither unsatisfactory nor unexpected. To some extent they may be accounted for by the unusually long period of fine weather, the disturbed state of the city during August, and by the fact that two of the Libraries were closed for four months while their stocks were being prepared for transfer to new buildings. The principal reason, however, is the Committee's change of policy in regard to the purchase of novels. Since the end of the year 1909 novels have not been bought until a period of from six to twelve months after publication has elapsed. The decreased issues of fiction during 1911 as compared with the issues for the year 1910 amount to 18518 volumes. In an annual issue of over nine hundred thousand volumes of fiction, a decrease of eighteen thousand is not a serious matter, but in this case it serves to shew that the Committee have been justified in declining to continue to cater for the comparatively limited number of borrowers who only want the latest and most sensational novels. The delay in the purchase of novels is not only an advantage to the Committee economically but also enables a careful selection to be made.

The statistics of issues to Juveniles for home reading are interesting. The nett increase on the preceding year is 6488 volumes. There were increased issues of non-fictional works amounting to 18255, and decreased issues of fiction to the extent of 11767. This result is to be mainly attributed to the great help given by the School Teachers to the Children in the selection of the books to be borrowed from the Libraries.

A word of commendation is due to the Librarian and Staff at the Everton Branch Library for the large increase in the issues to children from that Library. Fifty thousand volumes were issued in 1911 as against 37565 volumes in 1910, and 32168 volumes in 1909.

In the Picton Reading Room there were eight special exhibitions of books on topical subjects. All were popular, while the exhibition of Bibles at the time of the celebration of the Tercentenary of the Authorized Version of the English Bible was visited by a large number of children from the elementary schools. Several local Societies held special meetings at the Reference Library when books on the subjects in which their members are interested were exhibited.

CATALOGUES.

The preparation of catalogues for the Libraries for children in the new Walton and Fazakerley and Sefton Park buildings, together with the revision and passing through the press of the catalogue for the Central Lending Library, seriously interrupted the work on the Reference Library catalogue. Progress, however, was made with this important work, and there is every prospect that during 1912 the work will be satisfactorily advanced.

Indexes have been made to the large collection of Liverpool obituary notices, and to the biographical, historical, and topographical articles.

THE MOORE MSS AND DOCUMENTS.

The Collection of Moore MSS and Documents in the Reference Library have been calendared by Mr. John Brownbill. There are 1344 separate items in this collection, and all have been numbered and systematically arranged.

LANCASHIRE DEEDS.

The Calendar of the Lancashire portion of the Coleman Collection of deeds which was made by Mr. Brownbill in 1910, has been typed and an index of the names of the persons and places contained therein has been compiled and typed.

NEW LIBRARY BUILDINGS.

During the year three new buildings were completed and opened. The Stanley Road Reading Rooms were opened by the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor (Councillor S. Mason Hutchinson), on the 13th of June. The Sefton Park Lending Library was opened by the generous donor (Dr. Andrew Carnegie), on August the 3rd; and the Walton and Fazakerley Lending Library and Reading Rooms by the Vice-Chairman of the Library, Museum, and Arts Committee (Dr. Richard Caton), on November 23rd. The Stanley Road Reading Rooms are most popular, and there has been an average attendance of 211 per night.

At both the Walton and Fazakerley and the Sefton Park Libraries the safeguarded Open Access system has been introduced and so far has proved successful. The success of the latter Library amply demonstrates that the public of the Sefton Park district appreciate the increased facilities for reading that the new building affords. The fact that this new building is situated near to the premises in Lark Lane used for many years as a Lending Library, has enabled nearly all the borrowers to retain their tickets, while a large number of new Readers have been secured. In 1911, 2850 Readers' tickets were issued to adults as against 1404 in the year 1910. A Lending Library for Juveniles has been provided in the new building and 1104 tickets were issued to children between August and December.

The new building in Evered Avenue was erected to supply the two districts of Walton and Fazakerley, and the site selected for it is half a mile distant from the premises formerly used as a Lending Library for Walton. It is probable that this distance between the two buildings has deterred a large number of the Borrowers from the old Library from claiming their tickets for use at the new Library. Some of the Borrowers have had their tickets transferred to the Kirkdale Branch Library, and it is hoped that those who have not yet responded to the appeals addressed to them may be induced to take up their tickets at the new building or join either the Kirkdale or Everton Libraries. There is every indication that the people of the Walton and Fazakerley districts will make full use of the splendidly equipped building now placed at their service. A Lending Library and a Reading Room for Juveniles have been provided, and during the month of December over 600 borrowers tickets were issued to children.

THE BRANCH LIBRARIES AND READING ROOMS.

With the opening of the two new buildings above referred to, all the Branch Libraries are now housed in modern and specially constructed buildings. During the ensuing year it is hoped that the new Reading Rooms for the Old Swan and Chatsworth Street districts will approach completion. The question of providing a Lending Library and Reading Rooms for the Scotland Road district will remain, and when the demands of that district have been met, the work of the Committee so far as the building of Branch Libraries is concerned, will be finished until our City has extended far beyond its present boundaries.

Since the year 1890 the Committee have erected ten new buildings for Libraries and one for Reading Rooms. The total cost has been £92347, of which Dr. Carnegie has generously provided £39152.

It is interesting to see to what extent this great expenditure has been appreciated by the people of Liverpool. The highest number of issues of books from the two Branch Libraries in Great Nelson Street and Upper Parliament Street was in 1880 when a total of 436415 was recorded. The issues for the past year amounted to 1578309 volumes.

The increase of readers is also interesting. By deducting from the population returns the number of persons over 70 years of age and under 10, an accurate estimate can be made of the number of possible Readers within the City limits. In 1881 the number of Borrowers from the Libraries was 1 in 35 of the total possible Readers. In 1891 it was 1 in 30. In 1901 it was 1 in 20, while in 1911 it was 1 in 11.

STOCKTAKING.

During the year the stocks of the Branch Libraries were checked and a report submitted to the Committee.

Every effort is being made to improve the condition of the stocks in the various Libraries. Nearly eleven thousand soiled and worn-out volumes were withdrawn, for over seven thousand of which clean copies were substituted.

A scheme was submitted and adopted by the Committee for a re-arrangement of the hours of the Staffs in the Lending Libraries. The services of the extra assistants engaged for evening work were discontinued, and the economy thus effected enabled the Committee to carry out a long desired reform of the hours of labour of the large number of boys employed in the Reference and Branch Libraries.

The Toxteth Branch Library was painted and decorated and alterations made to the newspaper stands which enable the Reading Room to be more effectively supervised.

LECTURES.

The number of Free Lectures delivered during the year was 167 (29 in the Picton Lecture Hall and 138 in various districts), a reduction of eighteen on the number delivered in 1910. The total attendances numbered 77910. The average attendance of 466 at each lecture was an increase over the average for the previous year. The special lectures to juveniles have been in every way successful. Twenty lectures were delivered, and the total attendances numbered 11286, an increase of 1113 over the returns for the year 1910.

PICTON LECTURE HALL.

The Picton Lecture Hall was re-painted and decorated. The system of ventilation, hitherto so defective, has been successfully re-constructed.

REPORT BY THE CURATOR OF MUSEUMS.

I beg to furnish the Fifty-ninth Annual Report upon the CONDUCT and PROGRESS of the Museums.

1.—GENERAL.

Since 1896, a period of sixteen years, specimens of Natural History and of Ethnography, totalling over 100,000 specimens, have been added to the Collections, or an average of nearly 7,000 additions per year.

The visitors to the Museums during the year are as follows:—

Total Visitors	403,128
Weekly Average	7,752
Daily Average	1,544

The attendance of School Children under the charge of teachers has continued, and the latter have availed themselves of the clause in the Education Code, whereby time devoted to instruction in Museums reckons as school attendance. School teachers make frequent use of the Museums theatre to give special lessons to their pupils—specimens being brought from the Museum cases for illustrating them. The specimens of various sections, especially those illustrating the ethnography of primitive peoples, have been in great request. Special lecture courses in geography, drawn up by the teachers in consultation with members of the Museums staff, have been given, and Museum specimens have been used as copies for modelling in cardboard, wood and plasticine, and the Museum series of lantern slides has been drawn upon for further illustrations. Assistance has been given to advanced students preparing for University examinations in Liverpool and London.

Twenty-four lectures were delivered by the members of the Staff and others on Monday evenings in the lecture theatre of the Museums, specially dealing with the various collections in the institutions. They were illustrated by specimens and lantern slides. The number of visitors to the Museums on these Monday evenings totals 9,239, of whom a large percentage attend the various lectures.

In all sections of the Museums considerable progress may be recorded. To the Exhibition Galleries, in addition to the general conservation and maintenance of specimens already there, numerous important additions have been made, and many descriptive and illustrative labels have been added, to aid alike the general visitor and the student.

In the Lord Derby Museum a number of Mammals (Sun Bear, Tahr, Maxwell's Duiker, &c.), Birds, Fishes and Reptiles have been mounted and placed on exhibition in the General Collections of the Upper Galleries. In the British Galleries twelve new Bird Groups, with natural surroundings, and a number of bird migrants have been placed on exhibition. Many fluid preparations of Invertebrate animals have been prepared and exhibited, and collections of British Orthoptera, Neuroptera and Hymenoptera have been acquired and are in process of being mounted for exhibition.

In the Botanical and Geological Departments useful work has been done. The examination and arrangement of the very large Herbarium acquired from the Botanical Gardens, Edge Lane, has been continued.

Considerable progress has been made in the transfer and re-arrangement of the Collection of Egyptian Antiquities so kindly undertaken by Professor Newberry. It is anticipated that the synoptic grouping of the collection, whereby objects of a like nature and use are associated together into series, will greatly increase its interest and educational value.

A collection of Cretan Antiquities has been deposited and is in course of arrangement by Professor Bosanquet, and a collection of casts of Hittite monuments in the Berlin Museum has been received on loan from the Liverpool School of Archæology, and will be shortly mounted and placed on exhibition.

The remarkable bronze head, now believed to be of Augustus, found by Professor Garstang from excavations at Meroë in the Egyptian Sudan, was on exhibition for a time in the Main Hall. It is now deposited in the British Museum, but we hope to acquire a facsimile of the original.

The British and European Ceramics have been housed in new cases specially built for them, and these important collections can now be inspected to much greater advantage than formerly. A very instructive introductory case has been arranged in which is displayed many of the processes in the production of pottery.

The West African Section continues to be augmented by donations from Mr. Ridyard. The total number of Mr. Ridyard's gifts to the Museum is now not far short of 5,000.

So as to afford opportunities for the inspection of recent acquisitions, a special case has been placed in the Main Hall, in which the acquisitions made both by donation and purchase are displayed from month to month.

I have much pleasure in acknowledging the conscientious work and generous co-operation of all members of the Staff.

On October 18th a Conference of the members of the Museums Association, and others interested in the work of museums, was held in the Museums, on the invitation of the Libraries, Museums and Arts Committee. About 60 persons were present, including the Curators, and in some cases the Chairman or other representative of the Committee, of the public museums of Manchester, Sheffield, Hull, Leicester, Stoke-on-Trent, Bolton, Warrington, and other towns in Lancashire, Cheshire and Yorkshire. The visitors were received and welcomed by the Chairman, Mr. F. J. Leslie,

F.R.G.S., and I gave a brief description of the arrangement of the collections, after which an hour was spent in the inspection of the exhibits and in that informal exchange of news and views which is so useful and pleasant a feature of these gatherings. After tea the chair was taken by Mr. H. R. Rathbone, Chairman of the Museums Sub-Committee. The following papers were given by members of the Staff:—"Note on the Introductory Series to the Ceramic Gallery in the Liverpool Museum," by P. ENTWISTLE, F.R.A.I.; "The Botanical Gallery of a Public Museum," by W. S. LAVEROCK, M.A., B.Sc.; "Modern Methods of Taxidermy," by Mr. J. W. CUTMORE; "The Educational Value of Museums for Schools," by J. A. CLUBB, D.Sc.

The Twenty-second Annual Conference of the Museums Association was held at Brighton from July 10th to 15th, and I submitted the following report to the Museums Sub-Committee at its August meeting:—

"I beg to report on my visit as delegate from Liverpool to the Brighton Conference of the Museums Association. Upwards of 40 Museums at home were represented, as well as the American Museum of Natural History (New York), the Australian Museum (Sydney), and the Deseret Museum (Utah). A large number of highly interesting and instructive papers were communicated, and many important discussions took place. In addition to participating in the discussions, on the special invitation of the Hon. Secretary, I submitted a paper on "The Purpose and Arrangement of an Index Museum," (see "Museums Journal," Vol. II, p. 254), in which the idea was elaborated of making the Entrance Hall of Museums a philosophic introduction to the fields of human knowledge covered by museum collections. The scheme proposed for the Liverpool Museum, by Professor Newberry and myself, was outlined, and in the discussion which followed it was generally agreed that some form of introductory collection, broad in conception and treatment, is an absolute necessity in all large museums, in which the multiplicity of collections bewilder the uninitiated visitor. It was felt that it would serve not only to demonstrate the inter-relation of the Natural Sciences, but also enable the visitors to get a clear grasp of what the institution is aiming at. I subsequently had many conversations with fellow-curators, in which the scheme was favourably discussed. Professor Bashford Dean, of the American Museum of Natural History, was especially interested and enthusiastic. 'Nothing so comprehensive has as yet been attempted,' he said, and he will watch the development of the scheme with great interest.

"I also had the opportunity of meeting Mr. J. Bailey, of the Victoria and Albert Museum, South Kensington, who has charge of the Government Grants-in-Aid Fund, and of discussing with him the conditions and arrangements whereby pecuniary grants up to half the amount are made to museums for the purchase of certain classes of specimens. Up to the present no advantage has been taken of these grants in Liverpool, but I hope to bring the matter before the Committee at an early date.

"I found of great advantage the opportunity, afforded by these conferences extending over several days, of meeting and exchanging views with fellow-curators, and these informal discussions and conversations are of at least equal importance with the more formal business of the meeting.

"Visits were paid to Worthing Museum, to the Hastings Museum, the Sedlescombe Museum, the two Brighton Museums and Battle Abbey."

"TILL DEATH US DO PART."

[Presented.]

REPORT by E. RIMBAULT DIBDIN, Curator of the WALKER ART GALLERY.

I have the honour to report in reference to the work during the year 1911 of the Department under the direction of the Art and Exhibitions Sub-Committee of the Library, Museums and Arts Committee of the City Council.

The removal of the registering turnstile at the entrance door having been sanctioned by the Council in November, 1910, there are not available any statistics as to attendances. There is not, however, any reason to doubt that the usefulness to students and to the public in general of the collection of works of art in the Gallery is fully maintained. The improvement as regards convenience and the better appearance of the entrance hall is generally recognised.

The modernisation of the interior, with a view to the better and safer housing of works of art, was continued during the year to such extent as the funds available permitted. The two ground floor rooms on the east side were thoroughly re-constructed and re-decorated; the small front room, formerly used as a cloakroom, being added. The heating pipes in the dado were removed, and radiators in the centre of the floor were substituted. The windows were filled with prismatic glass; the walls were panelled with wood; and oak floors were laid down. The hanging-space, as well as the lighting of the rooms, was considerably increased; and additional hanging-space was provided by the introduction of four specially-designed screens. In all, there are now five rooms instead of three, on this floor, available for the display of works of art, and free from the dangers of deterioration due to the old method of heating, with the exception that in each front room, there is still one unsatisfactory part where a furnace flue is in the wall, which, though not involving any special fire risk, is likely to affect pictures hung near it. These five rooms are now devoted to the exhibition of Foreign and British Old Masters, including the Roscoe Collection, and other pictures deposited by the Trustees of the Liverpool Royal Institution.

Specially-designed cases have also been provided in each of the small front rooms for the exhibition of miniatures, illuminations, etc.

The new Cloakroom constructed in an unused part of the cart-yard has been completed, and it is found of great assistance to the staff in dealing with the deposits of cloaks, umbrellas, etc., and also the sale of photographs. In connexion with the latter, a new opening to the east back room provides special facilities.

In addition to the re-arrangement of the telephones, with an exchange in the cloakroom, a special connexion has been formed with the Central Fire Police Station.

During the troubles in connexion with the Railway Strike in August, a number of panes of glass in the windows on the east side of the building were broken by rioters. The cost of replacing, amounting to £12 18s. 0d., was borne by the Watch Committee.

Prior to the falling due of the renewal premiums for insurance of the Permanent Collection against fire, I entered into negotiations with the offices concerned, with a view to a revision of the rate charged, having regard to the exceptional character of the risk. Eventually, I was able to obtain an abatement of 1s. per cent., which will result in a saving of £68 on the total annual premium. The sum for which the Permanent Collection is now insured, including £3,100 added during the year, is £136,562.

My attention having been drawn to a clause in the new Copyright Bill, which was calculated to prejudice and perhaps destroy the Corporation's copyright in pictures in the Gallery, I approached the Imperial Arts League with a view to protective action, and, at a conference on the subject held at Leighton House, at which there was a representative gathering, I was appointed on a Sub-Committee to take such steps as were possible to get the Bill amended. Lord Redesdale and other influential personages took the matter up, and Sir John Simon, with whom I had an interview through the good offices of Colonel W. Hall Walker, M.P. (Deputy-Chairman of the Art and Exhibitions Sub-Committee), undertook to give the matter favourable consideration. Eventually, the objectionable clause was dropped, on the motion of the Earl of Derby.

With the sanction of the Committee, I attended the meeting of the Museums Association at Brighton, on 10th to 14th July, and, while there, being requested to contribute a paper to the proceedings, I wrote one on "The Functions and Scope of a Municipal Art Museum," which provoked considerable useful discussion, and was afterwards published in the proceedings of the Association in January, 1912. (Vol. II., No. 7, page 193.)

In the course of the year, the No. 5 Loan Collection of Turner Drawings, lent by the National Gallery in 1909, was returned.

Twelve casts of antique statuary were transferred to the City School of Art, and the Model of Rome was removed from the East Back Room, prior to the alterations which have been referred to.

The care of the Permanent Collection has been greatly facilitated by the new and capacious gilders' room, constructed in 1909. During the year the following special work has been done:—

No. 269, Portrait of Alderman W. Bennett, by W. B. Boadle, was repaired by the artist.

New frames were provided for No. 407, H. L. Elmes (Engraving), by T. Oldham Barlow, R.A. (also new mount); 39 Etchings and Mezzotints, by John Finnie; 25 Liverpool Sketch Club Drawings; 39 Hunt Drawings.

The following were mounted:—39 Finnie Etchings and Mezzotints; 143 Hunt Drawings; 62 Liverpool Sketch Club Drawings.

The frames of the following were repaired and re-gilt:—No. 893, "Kittie," by Frederick Sandys; No. 655, "The Widower," by Sir Luke Fildes, R.A.; No. 330, "Tried Friends," by W. Huggins; No. 387, "Interior of a Butcher's Shop," by Jan Steen; No. 285, "Venus beseeching Vulcan"; No. 47, "Farm Buildings," by Patrick Nasmyth; No. 897, "White Pike, Broughton Moor," by D. A. Williamson (also new mount); No. 357, "The Progress of Intemperance" ("Sick and Repentant," "The Ruined Family," "The Expectant Wife," and "The Robber," from this series), by E. V. Rippingille.

Three pedestals and six small oak block plinths, for the display of sculpture, were provided; also four screens and two pedestals with attached revolving frames, for the display of reproductions.

Four screens were also provided, and two pedestals and attached revolving frames for the display of reproductions.

Under the Agreement with the Trustees of the Royal Institution, the work of conserving the Roscoe Collection made further progress. Twelve works were cleaned and repaired, and the frames re-gilt. The cost of this work amounted to £108 14s. 8d.

The pictures in the Branch Libraries were inspected. Inscriptions were written on the frames or mounts of 346 pictures, etc.

The attendances of students during the year numbered 1,099. Twelve new students' tickets were granted.

During the year pictures have been lent to the following:—Royal Academy of Arts, London; Royal Scottish Academy, Edinburgh; Royal Glasgow Institute of the Fine Arts; Scottish Exhibition of National History, Art, and Industry, Glasgow; The Coronation Exhibition, London; The International Society of Sculptors, Painters, and Gravers, London; Royal Birmingham Society of Artists; The Canadian National Exhibition of Toronto; and the Art Galleries of the following Corporations:—Aberdeen, Blackpool, Bury, Leeds, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, Wallasey, and York.

All the purchases were made, as in previous years, from profits earned by the Autumn Exhibition account; no money from the rates having for many years been expended in the purchase of works of art for the Permanent Collection. The annual Exhibition surplus has, for a good many years, been steadily dwindling, in harmony with the general experience of Art Exhibitions: the result probably of the increase of counter-attractions; and, as a result, the Committee is no longer able to deal adequately with the duty of enriching the Permanent Collection with new acquisitions. It is a necessary matter of policy that the money earned by the Exhibitions should be spent in them, but, as no fund whatever is provided for purchases, apart from the small income of the Derby Bequest, which is especially set apart for the encouragement of rising artists, the Committee has found it necessary to divert a considerable amount for the acquisition of older works, chiefly by local artists. In this way, there have been purchased during the year 1 water-colour, 1 miniature, 3 pencil and pen drawings, and a portfolio of reproductions.

Cordial thanks are due to a number of generous donors (a list of whom is given above) who have added some very desirable works to the Permanent Collection.

Acknowledgments are also due to the kind lenders of several very important works especially a particularly choice example of the Art of Sir Henry Raeburn, hitherto unrepresented in the Gallery.

There are now 1,276 items in the list of the Permanent Collection, of which 117 are at present on loan to public buildings in the City, viz., Town Hall, 25; Newsham House, 24; Central Library, 20; Kirkdale Library, 9; Everton Library, 7; Wavertree Library, 12; Toxteth Library, 4; St. Martin's Hall, 1; Calderstones House, 14; Museum, 1.

The Galleries were opened on Saturday evenings until 8 o'clock during the months of October to May, inclusive, and also on Sundays from 2 to 4-30 p.m. during the same period.

During the year, rooms have been used for the following special exhibitions:—

1. Exhibition of pictures by H. Clarence Whaite, P.R.C.A., R.W.S., from 28th January to 11th February.
2. Exhibition of work by students of the Liverpool City School of Art, from 28th January to 11th February.
3. The Northern Photographic Exhibition, from 3rd to 18th March.
4. Forty-first Annual Autumn Exhibition of Modern Art, from 23rd September, 1911, to 8th January, 1912.

The Autumn Exhibition was open during 91 days and 59 evenings, from 23rd September, 1911, to 6th January, 1912. The catalogue comprised 2,540 items, as against 2,445 in 1910, and the collection was similar in plan to that of 1910, including amongst its special features a room devoted to Continental art, a complete exhibition of works (102 in number) by members of the Royal Society of Miniature Painters, a very important black and white section, including lithographs by members of the Senefelder Club, and collective exhibitions of works by members of the Pastel Society and the Society of Graver-Printers in Colour.

The Continental Section, which was shown in Room B, included a special exhibit of Swedish pictures, 21 in number, which with 28 etchings, etc., formed a collection representative of the art of the day in that country. For this interesting novelty we were indebted to the kind co-operation of Mr. H. D. Roberts, Director of the Public Library, Museums, and Fine Art Galleries, Brighton; the pictures being selected from those at the Swedish Exhibition held during the earlier months of the year at the Brighton Gallery.

A special exhibition of paintings by Mr. T. E. Mostyn, of 27 items, which was arranged in Room 4, proved a most attractive novelty. This innovation, which was strenuously opposed and adversely criticised by a number of those connected with the exhibition, and especially by the professional members of the Hanging Committee, showed emphatically the desirability of getting away as far as possible in future exhibitions from the indefinite, miscellaneous character, which has become a tradition.

The Subscription Banquet at the opening of the exhibition, instituted in 1909, was repeated on 21st September with great success, there being 110 ladies and gentlemen present, including the Lord Mayor and the Lady Mayoress of Liverpool, the Lord Mayor and the Lady Mayoress of Manchester, Sir W. H. Lever, Bart., Mr. J. Y. Dawbarn, M.A. (President of the Liverpool Academy), and Mr. E. A. Hornel.

A painting commemorative of the occasion was voluntarily undertaken by Mr. Arthur J. Lyons, of Paris, on the suggestion of the Chairman of the Sub-Committee, and this, which contains the portraits of over 50 well-known Liverpool people, was offered by subscribers, and accepted as a gift to the Art Gallery. The subject, an extremely difficult one, was handled with great ability by Mr. Lyons, who has specialised in compositions of this kind. Opinions vary as to his success, but those which were unfavourable may, perhaps, have been due to the natural distrust of anything unusual in pictorial art—which similarly found expression when Rembrandt produced his so-called “Night Watch,” in which he disregarded the arid conventions regulating such pictures. It is to be regretted that, as the picture was intended for the Permanent Collection, the subscription list was not such as to justify the artist in spending a month or two longer in doing his utmost to make it worthy of his reputation.

386 works were sold, the catalogue prices of which amounted to £8,394 6s. 6d. This shows a very gratifying improvement, the total being more than double that of the previous year, and larger than that of any year since 1900.

In addition to the official catalogue, an illustrated one was, as usual, published by Messrs. D. Marples & Co. The Committee had valuable professional assistance in the preparation of the Autumn Exhibition from Messrs. Adrian Stokes, A.R.A., E. A. Hornel, and Adolph C. Meyer, A.R.E.

The attendance of the public at the Exhibition was somewhat less than that of the previous year. This may, in part, be attributed to the shorter duration of the Exhibition, due to the delay in opening it, caused by the Railway Strike, which prevented pictures being brought from London, Glasgow, Edinburgh, &c. There is, however, a general shrinkage in attendance at all exhibitions in recent years, but it may be noted that, as regards the Autumn Exhibition, the falling off during the last two years coincides with the great Season ticket holders' soirees were held on 22nd September and 8th January, at the former of which there were present the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor, the Lady Mayoress, and other civic dignitaries. On each occasion there was a programme of vocal and instrumental music.

The interesting series of Friday afternoon "Talks" on art subjects was discontinued, because I found it impossible to obtain a sufficient number of volunteers to form a programme. I was, however, fortunate in obtaining one very eminent volunteer in the person of my friend, Mr. G. Bernard Shaw, who visited Liverpool specially to give a "Talk" on Friday, 29th December. It was unwillingly and with regret that I gave up the "Talks," for I should rather have wished to extend the idea, which proved most acceptable to the public, by having such things in the evenings as well as in the afternoons. If an attraction of this kind could be provided, it would do much to improve attendance at, and interest in, the exhibition. It is not, however, possible to do so without some expenditure of money.

On 18th October, a miniature No. 1,993 "Fiona" by Miss E. Macpherson was stolen by some visitor to the exhibition, and though every possible effort was made, with the assistance of the police, to detect the thief, no clue was obtained.

On 5th July a proposal to hold an Art Union in connection with the Autumn Exhibition was approved by the City Council, and a Committee was formed, with the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor as President, and Councillor P. Charles Kelly as Chairman, to carry on the enterprise, which had for its sole object to aid the Autumn Exhibition by increasing the sales. The project, after it had been launched, met with a good deal of unexpected opposition, and this, combined with the delays thereby caused, greatly hampered the Committee in its work. The sale of tickets was, however, considerable, the total amount taken being £1,168 12s. 5d., and out of this—although the preliminary expenditure, much of which was in the nature of capital outlay, was necessarily very heavy—the Committee were eventually able to give 40 prizes, with which the winning ticket holders purchased from the Autumn Exhibition 75 works of the total catalogue value of £635 3s. 6d.

By the much-regretted death of Alderman Stolterfoht, on 8th March, the Art and Exhibitions Sub-Committee lost a valued member since 1896, who had, since 1899, acted as Hon. Treasurer of the Autumn Exhibition account. On 24th April, Mr. William Evans was elected to succeed him in that capacity.

CHAIRMAN'S PREFACE.

With this volume the Library, Museum and Arts Committee may be said to have reached their Diamond Jubilee, for it forms the Sixtieth Annual Report of their work. The steady progress of that work, and the way in which, year by year, the departments under their charge have been made more and more useful to the community, appear in the interesting Historical Summary, prepared by the Chief Librarian, on pages 7 to 14 of his Report.

It is a happy circumstance that the donors to whose generosity we owe the inception of the three branches which are served by the Committee's Institutions in William Brown Street, the 13th Earl of Derby, Sir William Brown, and Sir Andrew Walker, are all to-day represented on the Committee by their descendants, the 17th Earl of Derby, Mr. Ronald Stewart-Brown, and Colonel W. Hall Walker. In this fact there is security that in the development of those Institutions the original intentions of the benefactors are being duly respected.

The work has grown beyond any anticipations which those benefactors could have formed. It was said years ago that a Library could be fairly representative of all branches of literature when it reached 10,000 carefully selected volumes. But that number of volumes are issued every day in our Libraries, while the Museums and Art Gallery are visited by nearly a million persons in the course of a year.

One very satisfactory feature in the Library statistics is the greatly increased issues, nearly 84,000 volumes more than last year, to juvenile readers. There are now 19,500 children holding Reader's Tickets in the Lending Libraries, and although a large proportion of the books they take out come under the heading of fiction, last year 414,000 volumes were in other departments, more than half of these being books of Travel, History, Biography and Fine Arts.

A notable event of the year was the visit of the Library Association in September, after an interval of twenty-nine years since their last meeting here. They expressed their admiration of our system of Lending Libraries and Reading Rooms, more complete, in their opinion, than in any City they had visited. A number of American Librarians were present, and they were specially interested in the close co-operation which now exists between our Branch Libraries and the neighbouring schools, by which on certain days in the week whole classes are taken to the Libraries for an object lesson in the use of books. They told us that in that respect we were ahead of anything which has been attempted in the United States.

The Report of the Museum Curator shows also the educational work which is being done there in direct partnership with the Schools. The Schools Loan Collections, comprising over 1,000 scientific objects, now circulate among 103 of our Elementary Schools, and, in addition, daily visits are paid to the Museum by school classes and their teachers. Over 1,500 Secondary School and University Students also attended at the Museum during the year for special work on Students' days. Numerous school classes, and many students, have also made use of the Art Gallery.

I especially emphasize these growing uses of the three buildings, because they confirm and strengthen the view I have always held that familiarity with the City's splendid literary, scientific and art collections should be a recognised part of our educational system, and that the earlier in a child's school life it is taken in hand, the better.

The Local History Gallery in the Museum has grown to an extent which delights those who are interested in the story of our City. I would earnestly appeal to all who have in their possession objects which illustrate that story, to consider whether they cannot deposit them with us, as gifts or as loans. I venture to think that no better way can be found of inspiring civic pride and patriotism in our future citizens than by showing them, as children, the living history of the City, brought together in such a Gallery.

In the Art Gallery our gratitude is due for many valuable gifts, which have, with the purchases, added 40 more items to the Permanent Collection. Towards the urgently needed extension of the Gallery the late Mr. Thomas Bartlett's legacy of £10,000 is a welcome and important contribution. There is now ample land for the extension in the hands of the Corporation, designs have been prepared, and it is to be hoped that there may be no long delay before a beginning is made.

The revised Catalogues of the Libraries and the Art Gallery, and the popular Guides to the Museums, are making good progress. These are very necessary features in the general scheme of increasing the popularity and usefulness of all the Institutions.

FRANK J. LESLIE,

Chairman.

HISTORICAL SUMMARY.

- 1848 Suggestion by the Rev. Canon A. Hume at a meeting of the Roscoe Club, February 1848, that a Free Public Library be established in Liverpool.
- 1850 Committee appointed by Town Council, 3rd April, on the motion of Councillor James A. Picton, to consider and report upon the establishment of a Public Library for Liverpool.

CHIEF LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

GENTLEMEN,

I respectfully submit a report of the work of the Reference and Lending Libraries during the year 1912.

The attached tables of statistics shew that 2,424,460 volumes were issued over the counters in the Reference Library, Lending Libraries, and Reading Rooms. In addition, it is estimated that there has been a use equal to an issue of 423,000 volumes of the books on open shelves in the Reference Library.

The issues in the Reference and Hornby Libraries shew an increase of 23,854 over those for the year 1911. The issues from the Lending Libraries shew a total increase over those for the previous year of 185,521 volumes (101,644 to adults, and 83,877 to juveniles). This is mainly accounted for by the fact that the Walton and Fazakerley and the Sefton Park Libraries were only open during a portion of the year 1911. There was an increased issue of books to adults at the Central, West Derby, Rawdon, Sefton Park, and Walton Lending Libraries, and a decreased issue at the Toxteth, Kensington, Wavertree, Kirkdale, Everton, and Garston Libraries. There was an increased issue to Juveniles at all the Branch Libraries except Kensington, Kirkdale, and Garston. The Kirkdale and Kensington Branches are the only Libraries which shew no increase of issues to adults, juveniles, or from the Lending Libraries' Dépôt. There was an issue of 12,663 volumes from the Lending Libraries' Dépôt, shewing an increase of 1,631 issues over the previous year. Nearly 2,800 volumes were issued from the special collection of books for Blind readers—an increase of nearly 450 volumes.

STOCKTAKING

The stock of books in the Reference Library was checked during the year, and a report submitted to the Committee.

THE MOORE MSS AND DOCUMENTS.

The Calendar of Moore MSS and Documents compiled by Mr. John Brownbill has been typed, and an Index is now being made. By arrangement between the Libraries Committee and the Record Society of Lancashire and Cheshire, the Calendar will be printed in the Transactions of that Society.

PRESENTATIONS TO THE LIBRARY.

Early in the year the Committee received from the Executors of the late Henry Young, Bookseller, of Liverpool, the original MS of the Moore Rental, which that gentleman had bequeathed to the Public Library.

Mr. Henry Nicholson, of Windermere, presented a handsomely-bound volume of letters which had passed between his kinsman Matthew Nicholson, of Richmond Row, Liverpool, and Mrs Felicia D. Hemans, her mother, and her sister Harriet Browne.

These two volumes are valuable historical records of Liverpool in the 17th and early part of the 19th centuries, and their addition to the important local collection already in the Library is a matter for sincere congratulation.

As in former years the Committee have had the pleasure of expressing thanks to Miss Hornby for her generous gifts of books in Braille type for the use of Blind readers.

REVISION OF LENDING LIBRARIES' STOCKS.

The work of improving the condition of the stock at the Branch Libraries has been continued, and during the year 3,235 volumes were withdrawn and cancelled, while 5,172 worn-out volumes were replaced. The larger number of these volumes were from the stocks in the Toxteth and Everton Libraries. Needless to say, this is a costly work, and therefore cannot be done rapidly. The revision of the stocks, apart from their condition, in all the Branch Libraries will require careful consideration at an early date, as an effort must be made to make the supplies in the Libraries equal to the demands. Garston, with a stock for adults of 8,500 volumes, has an issue of 64,600 volumes, while Rawdon, with a stock for adults of 6,300, has an issue of 117,800 volumes. Kirkdale, with a stock of 10,500 volumes, issued 84,600 volumes, and Sefton Park, with a stock for adults of 9,250 volumes, issued 160,600 volumes. It is calculated that every novel in the Sefton Park Library circulated 23 times during the year, and at the Rawdon Branch each novel was issued 29 times.

CATALOGUES.

A new Catalogue of the books in the Wavertree Library was published during the year, and Supplemental Catalogues were issued for the Kensington and Rawdon Libraries.

New Catalogues of the Books for Children in the Kirkdale and West Derby Libraries were also published.

FINES ON BOOKS FOR CHILDREN.

With a view to diminishing the number of Children's tickets detained for non-payment of fines at all the Branch Libraries, an arrangement has been made with the Headmasters and Headmistresses of Council Schools whereby lists are sent to them regularly of those children in each school who are holding Library books that are overdue. On the receipt of the lists, the teachers request the children to return or renew the books, and so avoid fines. The arrangement has worked most successfully, and thanks are due to the teachers for their hearty co-operation.

CLEANING AND PAINTING.

The Kirkdale, Rawdon, and West Derby Branch Libraries were cleaned and painted.

MEETING OF THE LIBRARY ASSOCIATION

In September, the Library Association held its 35th annual meeting at Liverpool by invitation of the Library, Museum, and Arts Committee. The Association had not visited this City since the year 1883. In the interval all the Branch Libraries and Reading Rooms have been built. The meeting was in every way a success, and the Members generally were favourably impressed with the Liverpool Public Libraries and their work.

FREE LECTURES.

The number of Free Lectures delivered during the course of the year was 166, one less than in 1911. Twenty-eight were given in the Picton Lecture Hall, and 136 in the various District Halls, the total attendance being 71,148, shewing a decrease of 6,762 compared with the previous year. The principal reason for the diminished attendance was the comparatively long spell of abnormally inclement weather during January and February; the attendances at the Picton Lecture Hall falling from an average of over 950 to as low as 254. The number of special Lectures for Children was increased from 20 to 22, and the attendance at the Lectures was 12,084, as against 11,296 in 1911. The signal success attending this very important branch of our Lecture work justifies the Lectures Committee's action in extending these special Lectures to centres where children have not previously been provided for.

Your obedient Servant,

GEO. T. SHAW,

CHIEF LIBRARIAN.

The Library, Museum, and
Arts Committee.

REPORT BY THE CURATOR OF MUSEUMS.

I beg to furnish the Sixtieth Annual Report upon the CONDUCT and PROGRESS of the Museums.

1.—GENERAL.

Since 1896, a period of seventeen years, specimens of Natural History and of Ethnography, totalling over 100,000 specimens, have been added to the Collections, or an average of over 6,000 additions per year.

The visitors to the Museums during the year, which show a considerable increase over last year, are as follows:—

Total Visitors	480,666
Weekly Average	9,243
Daily Average	1,820

There has been a large number of special visitors from other Museums and Educational institutions, and the following, from among others, may be recorded: Professor Sayce, Professor of Assyriology, Oxford; Dr. Preuss, Director of the Royal Ethnographical Museum, Berlin; Professor Lehmann Haupt, LL.D., Ph.D., Liverpool; Professor Otto Lehmann, Director of the Altona Museum; Dr. G. Byron Gordon, Director of the Museum of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia; Sir John Brunner, Liverpool; Professor C. U. Hartmann, Director of the Ethnographical Museum, Stockholm; N. W. Thomas, Government Anthropologist for West Africa; Dr. Arthur Dendy, Professor of Zoology, University of London; Dr. Lucas, Director of the American Museum of Natural History, and Dr. W. B. Benham, F.R.S., Professor of Biology and Curator of Museum, Otago University, New Zealand.

Twenty-four lectures were delivered by the members of the Staff and others on Monday evenings in the lecture theatre of the Museums, specially dealing with the various collections in the institutions. They were illustrated by specimens and lantern slides. Over 8,000 visitors were recorded in the Museums on these Monday evenings, and a large percentage attend the various lectures.

Prof. Newberry, of the Institute of Archæology, gave a course of eight afternoon lectures during October and November, in the Museum Lecture Hall, on "The Antiquities of Ancient Egypt," in which special reference was made to the many interesting and important specimens contained in the Museum Collection. The course was followed through by an exceedingly appreciative audience, and the Museum Committee accorded thanks to Professor Newberry by resolution. It is suggested that these lectures shall form the basis of a guide to the Egyptian Gallery of the Museum.

Professor Garstang, also of the Institute of Archæology, held a series of informal discourses and discussions on the replicas of Sculptures erected during the year in the Hittite Gallery. These important Hittite Monuments have been deposited on loan in the Museum, by the Liverpool Institute of Archæology, and have been examined with interest by many authorities, including Dr. Sayce, Professor of Assyriology, Oxford. He was particularly struck with their arrangement, as the side illumination brought out details which were not so well seen in the originals. The Museum is to be congratulated on being the first institution in this country having such a magnificent series of Hittite Monuments on exhibition.

The Cretan Collection, deposited on loan by Professor Bosanquet, has had some important additions made to it, and the labelling of the exhibits is being proceeded with.

The Romano-British Collections have been re-arranged in better cases, and some important casts of representative examples of Romano-British Sculpture, prepared under the authority of the Society for the Promotion of Roman Studies, have been acquired, and will shortly be placed on exhibition.

The Local History Gallery has had numerous and important additions made to it during the year, and the Committee is indebted to several Liverpool gentlemen (see pp. 60-63) for gifts and loans illustrative of Liverpool's history. An important selection, containing several old views, street names in Herculaneum Ware, and volunteer flags, among other interesting specimens, have been received on loan from the Town Hall, by permission of the Finance Committee, and a selection of the Herdman paintings of Old Liverpool are on view by permission of the Library Sub-Committee.

In the Ceramic Section a number of specimens, suitable for the purpose, have been placed in shallow frames, and hung on the walls. They are thus available for study at close quarters, so necessary in the examination of pottery.

Considerable acquisitions have been made to the Melanian Department, and Mr. Ridyard, to whose efforts our West African Section mainly owes its existence, has now presented, or directly caused to be presented, over 5,000 specimens to the Museums.

In Natural History, many important additions have been made, and much useful work done. Perhaps the most important donation made in this department was the specimen of Red Sea Dugong (see p. 55). The opportunities of obtaining specimens of these interesting Aquatic Mammals are becoming less and less, as there is every reason to believe the family is a dwindling one, and will shortly become extinct. This and many other Mammals have been mounted and placed on exhibition. The case of Lemurs, a group of Monkeys of great scientific interest, has been revised and many specimens remounted.

The British Series of Birds with natural surroundings is now nearly completed. Seven new groups, including the Nightingale, Siskin, and Wood Lark, were mounted during the year and placed on exhibition. The British Bird Egg Cabinet has also received a valuable addition (see p. 54), whereby it has been made almost complete. In all the various departments of Natural History considerable progress may be reported, and the proper conservation of specimens has been carried out.

Special efforts have been made during the past year to enlarge the direct educational value of the Museum collections, both by increasing the facilities for students studying the collections in the Museums and also by adding to and improving the Loan Collection for the use, outside the Museums, by schools and other educational institutions, and I submitted a report on the subject to the Museums Sub-Committee, from which the following extracts have been taken.

“Taking the latter part of the work, viz., the loan of Museum specimens for use outside the Museums, there are now 103 Elementary Schools and two Training Colleges in Liverpool (requests from schools outside Liverpool have had to be refused) regularly obtaining specimens from the School Loan Collections. These applications are continuous, scarcely a day passing during the period the schools are in session but applications are received, varying from one to six per day. During the past year 350 of these applications were dealt with, and that the demand is increasing is shown from the fact that since the beginning of the present year, in the first four weeks of the new school session, 93 specimens have been applied for. These collections have been formed largely by the demands made. Whenever a specimen is asked for, if not already in the collection, it is added, if possible, from the duplicates of the exhibition series. They now contain upwards of 1,000 specimens. I am at present engaged in revising these collections, and when this revision is completed I propose to ask the Committee for authority to have a catalogue of them published for the use of the teachers.

“The part of the work consisting in the visits of students to study the collections in the Museums on the day set apart for their use shows the same satisfactory progress. There are no records of such visits on days other than the ‘Students’ Days,’ for which, as the Committee is aware, special tickets are issued, but it is a daily experience to have enquiries on matters pertaining to the collections from such visitors. On these 52 days of the year 1,150 Art Students, 350 Science Students, and a few for more general purposes, have been recorded, averaging over 30 per ‘Students’

Day' (on one 'Students' Day' 71 students were working at one time in the Museums). These students are recruited from the Liverpool University, the Dental Hospital, Edge Hill Training College, City Technical School, Liscard School of Art, private studios in Liverpool, Bootle, Wallasey, Birkenhead and Hoylake, Wallasey High School, Liverpool Institute, several of the Liverpool Secondary Schools, and a number of students engaged in private study in preparation for degrees or diplomas in other Universities. I am constantly receiving acknowledgment of the help obtained from the collections by private students.

"There is still another branch of this section of the work, viz., the visits to the Museums, by arrangement, of school classes under the charge of teachers during school hours. Last year upwards of 2,500 pupils under the charge of 120 teachers from some 70 schools thus visited the Museums. There are great potentialities in this direction, and certain of the masters in our schools are becoming alive to the importance of such visits, when properly organised and systematically carried out in consultation with the Museum staff. During the past year the assistant master of the Pleasant Street Council Schools has continued his series of lessons in geography, in which, in conjunction with the physical characteristics, the fauna and flora and peoples of the respective geographical areas are dealt with. The lessons are given in the Museums Theatre, in which Museum specimens illustrating the subjects of the lessons are on view, and in addition lantern slides from the Museum series are shown. Some of the specimens (such as will not suffer by transit) are loaned to the school, and on subsequent days sketches and models in plasticine and other materials are made by the pupils from the actual objects."

By order of the Committee, I attended the meetings of the Museums Association in Dublin in July, and the British Association at Dundee in September. The privilege of attending these scientific meetings is greatly appreciated, and intercourse with one's co-workers is always an advantage to an Institution with so many departments as this.

Fossil Shell in Matrix, by Mr. Samuel Perrow, Rose Hotel, Binns Road, Old Swan, Liverpool.

Small collection of Carboniferous Fossils, including Shells and Plants, from Wigan, by Mr. G. A. Haworth, The Wigan Coal and Iron Co., Wigan.

Geology.Presented :

Small collection of Minerals, consisting of specimens of Chalcedonic Geode, Radiating Quartz, Chalcedonic Agate, Onyx Agate, Red-banded Agate, and piece of Silicified Material, from Salto, Uruguay, South America, by Mr. W. B. Dickinson, 42, Village Road, Oxtou.

Seven Minerals and piece of Glass, by Mr. Frederick Collings, 5, Rydal Street, Everton.

Thirty-one specimens of Rocks from Lund and district, Skane, South Sweden, by Dr. T. O. Hirst, Chapelstead, Gateacre.

Thirty Mineralogical specimens, consisting of Kauri Gum in Tanpiri Coal, Lava of several kinds, Sulphur, Quartz, Quartzite, Stalactites, and a sample of "Péle's Hair," from the Sandwich Islands and New Zealand. Portion of a miscellaneous collection bequeathed by the late Mrs. Catherine Hodgson, of Auckland, New Zealand.

Economics.Presented :

Two pieces of Tree Fern Stem turned vase-shape, and six "Curios" made from various woods, with a Trader's List of the Woods, from New Zealand. Portion of a miscellaneous collection bequeathed by the late Mrs. Catherine Hodgson, of Auckland, New Zealand.

Two Ornaments of Polished Fluor Spar and Black Fossil-bearing Marble, by Mr. W. B. Dickinson, 42, Village Road, Oxtou, Birkenhead.

THE AQUARIUM.

The Aquarium continues, as heretofore, to be one of the chief attractions of the Museums. The various tanks have been kept well stocked with examples of both marine and fresh-water life, and the Seal continues in good health and to be of great interest to visitors.

Donations of living specimens have been numerous, and special thanks are due to Messrs. Sills, F. Vaughan and W. H. Hurst for numerous gifts of fresh-water fish; to Captain W. T. Turner, of the S.S. "Mauretania," for specimens of American birds and reptiles; and to Mr. A. Ridyard for West African Walking Fish and the curious Lung Mud Fishes.

JOSEPH A. CLUBB,

CURATOR OF MUSEUMS.

C. N. Kennedy.]

NEPTUNE.

[Presented by Albert Wood, Esq., J.P.]

REPORT by E. RIMBAULT DIBDIN, Curator of the WALKER ART GALLERY.

I have the honour to report in reference to the work during the year 1912 of the Department under the direction of the Art and Exhibitions Sub-Committee of the Library, Museums and Arts Committee of the City Council.

During the year, the work of improving the interior of the building has been pursued so far as funds permitted. The offices, cloakrooms and lavatories were re-painted, and the extractors on the roof were re-constructed.

The pedestal screens in Room X were repaired, and the wall panels in the same room were heightened so as to give more hanging space. An additional adjustable panel, with swing doors, was made to cover the doorway leading to the yard.

Nine pedestals and nine small oak block plinths for the display of sculpture were provided. Room N was re-decorated and hung with figured damask.

Experimental linoleum surrounds having proved satisfactory, the same material was laid in Rooms B, C, F, G, O, N and X. Loose holland covers were obtained for eight settees, and new swing doors were fitted to the cloakroom.

The new arrangement for the display and sale of postcards, photographs, and other reproductions in the east back room on the ground floor having been the cause of increased sales, it was found necessary for the better storing and display of increased stock to provide a counter with cupboards. This, which is a distinct improvement, will, I have little doubt, repay the outlay.

Three showcases were purchased for the display of keramics and other small works of art unsuitable for pedestals.

The need of a wheeled chair in which infirm visitors could be taken round the galleries without exertion to themselves had long been felt, and, as an experiment, an invalid chair was purchased and placed on hire.

The Government having taken over the control of the telephones, the Town Clerk intimated he had been notified by the Authorities that the old system of charges was abolished, and that for the future the charges would be on the measured rate.

The work of compiling a new and adequate catalogue of the Permanent Collection has been actively proceeded with, and I was authorised by the Committee to engage Mr. Thomas White to assist in the necessary research work. I hope before long to place the results before the Special Committee appointed for the purpose.

With the sanction of the Committee, I attended the Conference of the Museums Association in Dublin from 8th to 12th July, and contributed to the proceedings a paper on "The care of paintings, drawings, engravings and other art treasures." This paper created much discussion, and, I think, proved useful. It was afterwards published in the Museums Journal, the organ of the Museums Association, Volume 12, No. IV, page 101-112.

With the permission of the Committee, I also visited the opening of the John Feeney Galleries at Birmingham, on 16th July.

By resolution of 26th February, the Committee renewed its contribution of £10 to the National Art Collections Fund.

An application was received from Professor Adshead, on behalf of the Town Planning Exhibition Committee for the use of rooms in this Gallery. I was elected a member of that Committee (of which the Chairman of the Library, Museum and Arts Committee was Vice-President), attended their meetings, and discussed the matter fully with them, after which their request was granted by the Committee on certain conditions; for lack of financial support, however, the project was eventually abandoned, at any rate for the time being.

The care of the Permanent Collection was continued on the lines of recent years. The following special work was done:—

New frames were provided for No. 921, "Fishing Boats off Yarmouth," by R. W. Macbeth, R.A.; No. 914, "A Race Meeting," by Thomas Rowlandson (also new mount).

The following were re-lined:—No. 18, "Faithful unto Death," by Sir E. J. Poynter, Bart., P.R.A.; No. 422, "Strangers in a Strange Land," by Albert Starling; No. 32, "Down in the Reeds by the River," by Frank Walton, R.I.; No. 496, "A Disputed Bill of Costs," by James Campbell.

The frames of the following were repaired and re-gilt:—No. 422, "Strangers in a Strange Land," by Albert Starling; No. 32, "Down in the Reeds by the River," by Frank Walton, R.I.; No. 920, "The Pierhead, Liverpool," and No. 875, "The Great Gale of January, 1839," both by Samuel Walters; No. 126, "Sunday Morning," by J. Campbell Noble, R.S.A. (also new glass); No. 18, "Faithful unto Death," by Sir E. J. Poynter, Bart., P.R.A.; No. 882, "Wensleydale," by D. A. Williamson (also new mount); No. 681, "The Virgin Enthroned," by Ghirlandaio; also a new glass for No. 142, "The Ancestor on the Tapestry," by J. Haynes Williams; and new mounts for 15 Herdman Drawings.

Under the agreement with the Trustees of the Royal Institution, the work of conserving the Roscoe Collection was continued. Eight pictures were cleaned and repaired and the frames re-gilt. The cost of this work amounted to £102 19s. 7d.

The pictures in the Branch Libraries were inspected.

Inscriptions were written on the frames or mounts of 130 pictures. The attendance of students during the year numbered 950. Ten new students' tickets were granted.

During the year pictures were lent to the following:—The National Gallery of British Art, London; The Royal Academy of Arts, London; The Burlington Fine Arts Club, London; The Whitechapel Art Gallery, London; The Society of Scottish Artists, Edinburgh; The Fine Art Association, Stirling; The Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto; and the Art Galleries of the following Corporations:—Aberdeen, Belfast, Birkenhead, Blackpool, Bootle, Newcastle, Sunderland, and York.

The foregoing purchases, with the exception of the picture bought under the terms of the Derby Bequest, were made, as in previous years, from the surplus of the Autumn Exhibitions Account.

Cordial thanks are due to the generous donors whose gifts above recorded have considerably enhanced the value of the Permanent Collection.

The following pictures, deposited on loan, have been withdrawn by the owners, viz.:—

There are now 1,316 items in the list of the Permanent Collection, of which 117 were, at 31st December, 1912, on loan to public buildings in the City, viz.:—Town Hall 25, Newsham House 24, Central Library 20, Kirkdale Library 9, Everton Library 7, Wavertree Library 12, Toxteth Library 4, St. Martin's Hall 1, Calderstones House 14, Museum 1.

The Galleries were open on all week-days as follows:—November, December, January, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.; February, 10 a.m. to 4.30 p.m.; March and October, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; April to September, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; also on Saturdays until 8 o'clock throughout the year, and on Sundays from 2 to 4.30 during the months of October to May inclusive.

During the year rooms have been used for the following special exhibitions:—

On the following morning, July 25th, the Breakfast Conference of the National Temperance League in connection with the above was held in this Gallery.

On 4th September the death took place of Mr. Thomas Bartlett, of 12, Pembroke Place, Liverpool. The deceased gentleman, who was deeply interested in this Institution, bequeathed the sum of £10,000, to be applied in the building of, or partly the purchase of, freehold land for and as to residue in the building thereon of an addition to the Walker Art Gallery in the City of Liverpool, and to be identified (if possible) with the donor's name. This bequest, however, has not as yet been formally communicated to the Committee.

On 13th October, 1912, at the age of 82, the death also took place of my esteemed predecessor, Mr. Charles Dyall, first Curator of this Gallery, who retired from active service in 1904.

The Autumn Exhibition was open during 78 days and 52 evenings, from 5th October, 1912, to 4th January, 1913. The catalogue comprised 2,614 items, as against 2,540 in 1911, and the collection was similar in plan to that of 1911, including amongst its special features a room devoted to Continental Art, a complete exhibition of works (96 in number) by Members of the Royal Society of Miniature Painters, a very important black and white section, and a collective exhibition of works by Members of the Pastel Society.

The Continental Section, shown in Room B, included a special exhibit from Denmark of 9 pictures, with 12 pieces of sculpture, and examples of porcelain, etching, etc. For this interesting novelty we are indebted to the kind co-operation of Mr. H. D. Roberts, Director of the Public Library, Museum, and Fine Art Galleries, Brighton; the works being selected from those at the Danish Exhibition held during the earlier months of the year at the Brighton Galleries.

A special exhibition of paintings by John Lavery, A.R.A., of 28 items, was arranged in Room N, and proved a very attractive feature.

The Subscription Banquet at the opening of the Exhibition, instituted in 1909, was repeated on October 2nd with great success, there being 148 ladies and gentlemen present, including the Right Honourable the Earl of Derby (Lord Mayor of Liverpool), David Murray, R.A., John Lavery, A.R.A., W. R. Colton, A.R.A., James Paterson, R.S.A., Sir Wm. B. Forwood, D.L., Sir Charles Petrie, Sir Edward Russell, Sir James Barr, Alderman Leslie and Alderman Lea.

369 works were sold, the catalogue prices of which amounted to £6,609 17s. 3d., as against 345 works of the catalogue value of £8,055 18s. 0d. sold in 1911. The reduction is partly due to the curtailing of the amount expended by the Committee, and partly is in correspondence with the general shrinkage in the returns of the exhibition. The total, however, is, with the exception of 1911, the highest since 1904.

In consequence of the retirement from business, through ill-health, of Mr. William Woffenden, Editor of the Illustrated Catalogue, I was authorised to prepare an illustrated edition, in addition to the ordinary issue of the official catalogue. The result was satisfactory as a new departure, and although the sales were not equal to those of former years, the profit on the catalogues generally justified the action of the Committee, a considerable saving as regards the cost of production having resulted from the fusion of the two publications.

Although the sales of exhibits at the Autumn Exhibition manifest a practical appreciation on the part of serious-minded art lovers, the general support in the public attendance showed a considerable falling off. This is doubtless due partly to the inducements offered in other directions, notably the attractions of the numerous picture palaces, and the tendency on the part of many to spend their leisure time motoring. The shrinkage, while disappointing, is less marked in Liverpool than in other exhibitions throughout the country, but it is hoped that this attitude on the part of the public is merely transitory. The figures for 1912 are as follows:—

At one shilling (78 days)	14,268
At 6d. (43 evenings)	7,244
At 3d. (9 evenings)	6,729

Sir Lawrence Alma Tadema, O.M., R.A.]

AUTUMN

A season ticket holders' soiree was held on 4th October, with a programme of vocal and instrumental music.

On the 21st October the Rt. Hon. the Lord Mayor (The Earl of Derby) was made a Freeman of the City at a Special Meeting of the City Council held in St. George's Hall. A portrait of Lord Derby, by Mr. Orpen, and one of Lady Derby, by Mr. Lavery, were presented by the Members of the Council and other friends. In the evening his Lordship gave a reception in the Walker Art Gallery.

The series of Friday afternoon "Talks" on art subjects was not pursued in regular order, because of the difficulty of obtaining gratuitous lecturers on the available dates. On Friday, 3rd January, however, the Rev. T. W. M. Lund, M.A., gave a "Talk" in the "Grosvenor Room" on "Some uses of an Art Gallery," which was very successful, and concluded the special items in connection with the exhibition.

By resolution of the Art and Exhibitions Sub-Committee on 29th May, 1912, on the recommendation of the City Treasurer and Controller, the writing up of the Autumn Exhibition accounts was transferred to his department, and thus brought into line with the system employed throughout the Corporation.

The Art Union, instituted in 1911, was attended in 1912 with a larger measure of success. The total sales of tickets amounted to £1,245 12s. 8d. The number of prizes this year was 70 for £800, as against 40 for £460 in 1911, and the winning ticket holders selected from the Autumn Exhibition 110 works, the catalogue value of which amounted to £1,152 15s. 6d. One of the prize-winners was the Right Honourable the Earl of Derby, Lord Mayor, who had honoured the Art Union by becoming its President.

The concession by the Art and Exhibitions Sub-Committee of a single free evening admission to the exhibition during the month of December to each purchaser of an Art Union ticket was renewed.

CHAIRMAN'S PREFACE.

The separate Reports of the Chief Officials of the Libraries, the Museums, and the Art Gallery, contained in this volume, form a collective record of another year's active and useful work in all those Departments.

Columns of statistics are usually looked upon as very dry and unattractive, but facts of great interest and import often lie hidden in them. Thus, pages 19 to 25 of this volume will in themselves demonstrate the value to the Citizens of the vast collections of books on our Library shelves. An analysis of the figures shows that there are, in all the Libraries under the management of the Committee, 350,000 volumes, grouped among fifteen different Sections, a number which, if placed side by side on one continuous shelf, would extend from William Brown Street to Sefton Park. It will be seen that the largest Section is that of Prose Fiction, which contains 65,000 volumes, but these only form 18·5 per cent. of the whole. The two next largest Sections, those of Fine and Industrial Arts, and History and Biography, contain respectively 42,000 volumes and 36,000 volumes, being 12 per cent. and 10·3 per cent. of the whole. Thus, in view of the oft-repeated fallacy, that the shelves of Public Libraries are mostly given up to Fiction, it is interesting to note that these other two Sections together exceed in numbers the Section of Fiction by 13,000 volumes. I trust no impertinent critic will remark that the Section of History and Biography probably contains a good deal of Fiction in itself.

The total issues during the year were, in round figures, 2,389,000, so that, on the average, every book in our thirteen Libraries was issued more than six times last year. It is indeed surprising how very few volumes of the 350,000 fail to be consulted at all in the course of a year. The gloomy picture which has sometimes been drawn of a Public Library as a "Cemetery of Dead Books" certainly cannot be realised in Liverpool. Every day we have cause to be grateful to those who built up the Libraries in the past, for the sound judgment and common sense they displayed in their selections.

Pages 26 to 32 of the Reports contain a list of Free Lectures given in the year which cannot, I believe, be equalled in any other City. The fact that 168 Lectures were given, with an average attendance of 425 per Lecture, is very satisfactory, in view of the many counter attractions of a less intellectual character now provided in the evening in all parts of the City.

Liverpool was the Pioneer of the Free Lecture movement, as she has been in so many other spheres of social progress, and it is intended this year to mark, in some appropriate way, the 50th anniversary of the first Municipal Free Lecture given in our City.

In the Museums, too, 24 Free Lectures were delivered, all of which were well attended, the special object there being to bring under public notice the many valuable and interesting collections in those buildings. The official recognition of the importance of the educational side of Museum work, by the British Association, in appointing a Special Committee on the subject, of which our Curator, Dr. Clubb, was made a Joint Secretary, is a notable forward step in Museum progress. Much good ought to result from the deliberations and conclusions of that Committee.

The list of additions to the Museum Collections during the year, embracing over 4,000 separate objects, mostly gifts from Travellers and Explorers, affords once more gratifying proof of the general esteem in which the Institution is held. The transfer to the Museum last year, from the Town Hall and the Municipal Offices, of various objects which have been stored there for generations, gives the public of Liverpool the opportunity, for the first time, of seeing many interesting relics of the City's past history.

In the Art Gallery, the problem of exhibiting the Permanent Collection as it ought to be shown, and at the same time finding room for the Autumn Exhibition of Contemporary Art, has not yet been solved, and cannot be so until the much-needed extension of the Galleries has been carried out. The legacy of £10,000, bequeathed by the will of the late Mr. Thomas Bartlett, for this purpose, has not yet been received, and, in the uncertainty as to when they may expect it, the Committee have not felt justified in commencing the work. Meanwhile, the Municipal Art Collection was enriched in 1913 by the addition of 49 works, some presented and some purchased.

The ever-increasing demands made on the available space, not only in the Art Gallery, but also in the Library and Museum, have, of late years, altogether overtaxed the accommodation provided in those buildings, and the Committee last year adopted a comprehensive scheme, including a considerable number of improvements and extensions of different kinds. It is a curious fact that when the Libraries were built no provision was made for the administrative staff, and as the work has grown they have had to be housed in various parts of the buildings, ill-adapted for the purpose, with a sacrifice of both convenience and efficiency. The books too have long outgrown the space originally provided for them, and have been stored wherever room could temporarily be found.

The alterations decided upon last year, and now commenced, include the provision of an additional Book Gallery round the Picton Reading Room, a more convenient mode of access by the public to that Room, new rooms for the Chief Librarian and his staff, the remodelling of the heating system in the Libraries and Art Gallery, a separate entrance to the Brown Reading Room, a larger Entrance Hall to the Museum, and a much improved means of communication between the whole range of buildings in William Brown Street. It is hoped to complete this work during the present year.

There have, during recent years, been few changes in the constitution of the Committee to record, but, unfortunately, last year was exceptional in this respect. Two old and valued Members, Dr. Commins and Mr. A. Crosthwaite, resigned. Both of them had given efficient service as Chairmen of Sub-Committees. Mr. A. Buckley and Mr. Alfred Griffiths also resigned, and Mr. John Byrne left the Council. The Lord Mayor, Mr. H. R. Rathbone, who had made the Museum his special care, to its great advantage, vacated office on his election to the Chief Magistracy, but we hope to see him back again. Mr. Alderman Heald, and Councillors T. Burke, H. A. Cole, J. C. Cross, J. Lucas, and J. W. Smith have filled the vacancies thus occasioned by resignations.

The Committee unhappily lost a kind and generous friend in the death of Miss Mary Hornby, to whose constant devotion to the interests of blind readers it was mainly due that the issue of their special books had increased from 181 volumes in 1893 to 3,036 last year.

Here again, in the beneficent provision of books for the blind, in all departments of literature, Liverpool has led the way.

FRANK J. LESLIE,

Chairman.

HISTORICAL SUMMARY.

- 1848 Suggestion by the Rev. Canon A. Hume at a meeting of the Roscoe Club, February 1848, that a Free Public Library be established in Liverpool.
- 1850 Committee appointed by Town Council, 3rd April, on the motion of Councillor James A. Picton, to consider and report upon the establishment of a Public Library for Liverpool.
- Negotiations with the Trustees of the Royal Institution, Colquitt Street, and Report of the Provisional Committee, 4th September, recommending that an Act of Parliament be obtained for the transfer of the Royal Institution and its contents (paintings, casts, natural history specimens, books, etc.) to the Corporation, and that a Public Library, Museum, and Gallery of Art be established in that building.
- An Association of Citizens formed, 10th December, to promote the formation of the proposed Library, Museum, and Gallery of Art, and to solicit subscriptions, books, and specimens.
- 1851 The Bequest by the Right Honourable Edward-Smith, 13th Earl of Derby, K.G., F.L.S., of his collections of Natural History Specimens intimated to the Corporation of Liverpool by the Right Honourable Edward-Geoffrey, 14th Earl of Derby, K.G., F.L.S.
- Mr. Thomas J. Moore appointed first Curator of the Museum.
- The 'Liverpool Royal Institution (Transfer of Property) Bill' submitted to Parliament and withdrawn, May 1851.
- The purchase of the Union News Room, Duke Street, for the purposes of a Free Public Library and Museum decided upon, 9th September.

CHIEF LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

GENTLEMEN,

I respectfully submit a report of the work of the Reference and Lending Libraries during the year 1913.

STATISTICS.

The attached Tables of Statistics shew that 2,268,530 volumes were issued over the counters in the Reference Library, Lending Libraries, and Reading Rooms. In addition it is estimated that there has been a use equal to an issue of over 464,000 volumes of the books on open shelves in the Reference Library. There is a decrease in the total issues in both the Reference and Lending Libraries. The issues from the Reference Library were 53,500 less than in the previous year, while the issues from the Lending Libraries shew a decrease of over 102,000 volumes. It is impossible to give any satisfactory explanation of this decrease which is general, as all the Libraries have reduced issues to adults, while only four shew increases in the issues to children. There are one or two cases where the conditions have been exceptional. The Wavertree Branch Library was closed for nearly a month for painting and alterations, and the issues at the Kensington and West Derby Libraries were affected by the counter attractions at the Exhibition in Edge Lane. The Branch Libraries where there have been increased issues to Juveniles are Toxteth (13,629), Everton (6,353), Rawdon (3,019), and West Derby (2,933). There was an issue of 12,481 volumes from the Lending Libraries Dépôt, a decrease of 182 volumes. There were 3,036 volumes issued to Blind Readers as against 2,797 issued in 1912, an increase of 239 volumes.

LENDING LIBRARIES STOCKS.

The work of revising the stocks at the Branch Libraries, as indicated in my Report last year has been continued, and during the year 2,610 soiled volumes were cancelled, while 6,396 volumes were replaced. Over 10,000 new volumes were purchased for the Lending Libraries (including a stock for the Old Swan Reading Room and Book Delivery Station), and care was taken to augment the stocks of those Branch Libraries where the supplies have not hitherto been equal to the demands.

CATALOGUES.

The Cataloguing staff has been actively engaged on the Reference Library Catalogue, and satisfactory progress for the year was reported to the Committee. Catalogues of the books in the Adult sections of West Derby and Kirkdale Branch Libraries were published, as well as Catalogues of Books for Children in the Kensington, Wavertree, and Rawdon Branch Libraries. A special Catalogue of Books for Blind Readers was also compiled and issued.

BRANCH LIBRARIES AND SCHOOLS.

The Committee will, I am sure, view with satisfaction the continued work with the schools. Nearly all the Branch Libraries are now visited for special work by classes from Schools in the various districts. At the Walton and Fazakerley Branch Library during the winter months Lectures have been given by teachers to classes consisting of selected pupils from schools in the district.

NEW BUILDINGS.

In June the new Reading Room and Book Delivery Station at Old Swan, the gift of Mr. Andrew Carnegie, was opened by the Chairman of the Library Sub-Committee (Councillor E. C. Given). This building represents a new development of our Library work. The Old Swan is a growing district but not sufficiently advanced to require a fully stocked Branch Library. In this new building there is provided a Reading Room with a good selection of Newspapers and Periodicals, and also a small stock of standard books. The Assistant-in-charge will obtain books for Borrowers from either the West Derby or other Branch Libraries, or from the Dépôt. Tickets issued to Readers are available for use at either the Book Delivery Station or at the West Derby Branch Library. There is every prospect that the facilities thus afforded will be appreciated. During the half-year over 9,000 people visited the Reading Room, and nearly 2,600 volumes were issued to Readers in the room, while 4,200 volumes were issued for Home reading.

THE OLD SWAN READING ROOM AND BOOK DELIVERY STATION.

WOOLTON AND DISTRICT LIBRARY.

In November the Committee took over the books in the Library of the newly incorporated district of Woolton. The stock of over 4,000 volumes was removed to the Reference Library to be revised, repaired, augmented, and catalogued, and that work is in progress.

CLEANING AND PAINTING.

The Wavertree Branch Library was painted, certain structural alterations made, and new electric light fittings installed.

FREE LECTURES.

The total attendance at the 168 Free Lectures delivered during the year was 71,464, shewing an increase of 316 compared with the previous year, when 166 lectures were given. The figures would undoubtedly have shewn a greater and more gratifying increase but for the compulsory change in the Tue Brook Lecture Centre from the large main hall in Lister Drive Council Schools to the Andrew Carnegie Branch Library, Green Lane, where the capacity of the comparatively small Reading Room proved quite insufficient; and where, in consequence, many persons who presented themselves were unable to gain admission to the lectures. To the same cause is largely due the reduced attendances of children at the special lectures provided for them; there having been but 9,026 present at 21 lectures as against 12,084 at 22 lectures in 1912. Twenty-eight of the 168 lectures were given in the Picton Hall, the average attendance being but one less than in the previous year. In the District Halls 119 lectures were given to adults, and here the attendances shew the marked increase of 3,408 on the figures of 1912. It is always the desire of the Lectures Committee that lectures be given where possible in halls specially equipped and suited for the purpose rather than in the Reading Rooms of our Branch Libraries; and following this course the Kirkdale Lecture Centre was transferred from the Branch Library in Brock Street to the Co-operative Hall in Walton Road. It is also confidently expected that the hall at the Lister Drive Council Schools will again be at the service of the Committee for lecture purposes during the ensuing Session. Lectures were this year given in the Low Hill District for the first time.

Your obedient Servant,

GEO. T. SHAW,

CHIEF LIBRARIAN.

The Library, Museum, and
Arts Committee.

REPORT BY THE CURATOR OF MUSEUMS.

I beg to furnish the Sixty-first Annual Report upon the CONDUCT and PROGRESS of the Museums.

1.—GENERAL.

The visitors to the Museum during the year are as follows:—

Total Visitors	458,671
Weekly Average	8,820
Daily Average	1,750

Many special visitors from other Museums and Educational Institutions have visited the Museums for the purpose of inspecting important specimens or for other special purpose. The following, from among others, may be recorded: Dr. Eduard Seler, Royal Ethnographical Museum, Berlin; Sir T. P. Martin, Royal Scottish Museum, Edinburgh; Dr. Gann, British Honduras; Dr. S. J. Johnson, Department of Biology, Sydney University; Dr. Bather, British Museum; Dr. Adolphe Reinach, Paris; Prof. Green, Sheffield University; Prof. Baldwin Brown, University of Edinburgh; Dr. Hoyle, National Museum of Wales; H. Bolton, Esq., Bristol Museum; Dr. J. W. Scott-Macfie and Lieut.-Colonel Croft Lyons.

Twenty-four lectures were delivered by the members of the Staff and others on Monday evenings in the lecture theatre of the Museums, specially dealing with the various collections in the institutions. They were illustrated by specimens and lantern slides. More than 9,500 visitors were recorded in the Museums on these Monday evenings, and a large percentage attend the various lectures.

During October and November, Prof. Newberry, of the Institute of Archæology, gave a course of eight afternoon lectures, in the Museum Lecture Hall, on "The Ancient History of Egypt," in which special reference was made to the many interesting and important specimens contained in the Museum Collection. A very appreciative audience attended, and the Museum Committee accorded thanks to Professor Newberry by resolution.

Professor Garstang, also of the Institute of Archæology, gave one or two informal discourses on the replicas of sculptures erected last year in the Hittite Gallery. These important Hittite Monuments have been deposited on loan in the Museum, by the Liverpool Institute of Archæology.

Further efforts made during the past year to enlarge the direct educational value of the Museum collections have been attended with success. Numerous schools under the charge of teachers have visited the Museums, with the special object of receiving lessons, illustrated by Museum specimens. The teachers are unanimous in appreciation of the value of such lessons, whereby the intelligent interest of the pupil is stimulated by having the spoken word supported and illustrated by actual specimens. The Loan Collection for use outside the Museums by schools and other educational institutions has been considerably added to, and has been largely made use of.

Many applications for the loan of special objects in the Museums have been received during the year. On the occasion of the Royal visit several of the British Bird Groups and a few other objects of interest were displayed in the Town Hall, and an extensive series of art objects was loaned to the School of Art on the occasion of their Annual Exhibition.

By order of the Committee, I attended the meetings of the Museums Association in Hull in July, and the British Association at Birmingham in September. One of the more important matters of interest at the Birmingham Meeting was a joint discussion on the "Educational Use of Museums" by the Educational Science and Anthropology Sections of the British Association. I submitted a short paper in opening the discussion, and eventually an influential Committee was formed, composed of representatives from the Educational Science, the Anthropology, the Zoology, the Botany and the Geology Sections, to examine, inquire into and report on the character, work and maintenance of Museums, with a view to their organisation and development as Institutions for Education and Research, and especially to inquire into the requirements of schools. Prof. Green, of Sheffield, was made Chairman, and Mr. Bolton, of Bristol and I were appointed Joint-Secretaries. Liverpool was selected for the first meeting of this Committee, which took place on November 26th. The Lord Mayor (H. R. Rathbone, Esq.) was elected a member of the Committee, and attended.

Early in the year, the Director of the Federated Malay States Museums made a generous offer to the Committee, that if they could see their way to give facilities for Mr. Laverock, Assistant on the Museums Staff, to visit the Malay States for the purpose of making collections for the Museums, he would be pleased to give him hospitality for a period of six months. The Committee decided to accept this offer, and Mr. C. Sydney Jones, of the firm of Alfred Holt & Co., the present Chairman of the Museums Sub-Committee, very kindly offered a free passage. Mr. Laverock left for the Malay States in October last, and I have pleasure in stating that his reports are satisfactory, his health remains good, that specimens are beginning to arrive from him, and there is every reason to hope that the expedition will be attended with success, and that large and important collections will be made illustrating the Fauna and Flora, the Geology and Ethnology of the country.

In the Exhibition Galleries many improvements and additions have been made. The Cretan Collection, deposited on loan by Prof. Bosanquet, remains on exhibition, and a short guide to the specimens prepared by Prof. Bosanquet will shortly be published.

The Romano-British Collection on exhibition has been augmented by some important casts of representative examples of Romano-British Sculpture, prepared under the authority of the Society for the Promotion of Roman Studies.

The Local History Gallery continues to develop, and questions of space are becoming urgent. The collection now contains many remarkable and valuable objects illustrative of the past history of the City.

Considerable additions have been made to the Ceramic exhibits. In the section of Liverpool Pottery, exhibited in the Local History Gallery, several very important pieces have been added.

Mr. Ridyard has continued his donations of West African Ethnological specimens, and these, together with others received from other sources, have further enriched the Melanian Section of the Museums.

The Natural History collections on exhibition have been increased by some interesting additions. The Giraffe, which was acquired some years ago, has now been mounted. Other acquisitions to the Mammal Gallery include the somewhat rare Ecuador Bassaricyon and an interesting albino Badger. A number of Monkeys and some of the Dolphins have been remounted, and the large Tiger group has been renovated and cleaned. Among the acquisitions for the year is an Arabian Camel, and both the skin and skeleton have been prepared for mounting.

In the Bird Galleries progress has been made with one of the introductory cases to the General Collection by the preparation and placing on exhibition of over seventy specimens designed to illustrate, by comparison, the various modifications of the beaks, feathers and feet of the Birds of the World. This case is to be supplemented in other ways, and will be of a highly instructive character. Another highly educational case, added during the year to the British Bird Gallery, is a collection designed to facilitate the comparative study of Birds' Eggs. Several new groups have been added to complete the British Series mounted with natural surroundings, and the much needed Handbook and Guide to the British Birds on exhibition is now on sale in the Museums.

A number of replicas of Fishes in plaster have been cast, painted and added to the collections, and several wax models to illustrate small organisms have been prepared.

All the collections of Mammal and Bird Skins in the Study Cabinets have been kept in proper conservation.

The acquisition list for the year is a large one, over 4,000 specimens having been added to the collections. Perhaps the most important of these acquisitions is the large collection of Pre-Spanish Conquest Antiquities, collected by Dr. Gann in British Central Honduras, during 20 years' residence. They embrace many unique specimens in pottery, flint and stone, some of which are engraved in characters. It is hoped as soon as the necessary cases are provided to display this collection in a manner worthy of its importance.

JOSEPH A. CLUBB,

CURATOR OF MUSEUMS.

Emile Fuchs, M.V.O.]

SISTERS (Marble)

[Presented by the Artist.]

REPORT BY THE CURATOR OF THE WALKER ART GALLERY.

I have the honour to report in reference to the work done during the year 1913 under the direction of the Art and Exhibitions Sub-Committee of the Library, Museum, and Arts Committee of the City Council.

Some necessary renovation of the interior of the building was undertaken. Rooms B, C, E, F, H, K, L, M, and O were painted and redecorated. The ceilings of rooms G and N were painted, and the walls of Room D. The ventilation of the General Office being inadequate, an electric fan was installed to extract impure air.

The care of the Permanent Collection was continued on the lines of previous years, and the following special work was done:—

New frames provided for the pictures "Bootle Landmarks," by Samuel Austin, and "Ghemma en Turban Noir," by E. Chahine; also outside protection cases for "Autumn," by Sir L. Alma-Tadema, O.M., R.A., "La Vie Paysanne," by Cecil Jay, and "Lorenzo and Isabella" (also new inside flat), by Sir J. E. Millais, Bart., P.R.A. The frames of "The Pierhead, Liverpool," by Samuel Walters, and "Landscape," by W. Davis, were regilt. Glasses were fitted to "Till Death us do Part," by Sigismund Goetze, and "Bishop Shaxton Interviewing Anne Askew in Prison," by W. L. Windus (also a new flat to the latter).

By authorisation of the Art and Exhibitions Sub-Committee 79 loose calico covers were provided to protect pictures while in store.

The oil painting by W. L. Windus, "Bishop Shaxton Interviewing Anne Askew in Prison," recently presented by Alderman John Lea, J.P., was relined. The large picture "Virgin Enthroned," attributed to Ghirlandajo, bequeathed by Alderman Philip H. Rathbone, was, in pursuance of a resolution of the Art and Exhibitions Sub-Committee transferred to canvas and restored at a cost of £100.

For the purpose of better accommodation in connection with the fire alarm attached to the Gallery, a relay bell was added to the telephone. The fire hydrants previously placed in the floor of the yard have been removed, and two new hydrants substituted which will afford greater facilities in case of need.

On the occasion of the visit of Their Majesties the King and Queen in July last, at the request of the Lord Mayor the rooms used by the Royal visitors in the Town Hall were decorated with special pictures from the Gallery. The front of the Gallery was also suitably decorated in honour of the event.

Under the agreement with the Trustees of the Royal Institution, the work of conserving the Roscoe Collection is proceeding. During the year three pictures were attended to and various frames re-gilt, and the amount spent on this work since 1st January amounted to £117 14s. 2d.

In view of recent outrages in other Art Galleries, the Committee authorised the engagement of two commissionaires to supplement the attendants on watch duty in this Gallery.

It having been found in wet weather that drippings from umbrellas carried through the Galleries by visitors left ugly stains on the oak floors, instructions, approved by the Chairman, were given that all umbrellas be left on wet days with the attendant in the hall, no charge being made on such occasions.

By authority of the Committee I attended the Annual Conference of the members of the Museums Association at Hull from 14th to 18th July.

By resolution of the 6th June, the Committee renewed its annual contribution of £10 to the National Art Collections Fund.

Attributed to Ghirlandajo.

VIRGIN ENTHRONED.

[Bequeathed by Alderman P. H. Rathbone.

In addition to the current insurances on works in the Permanent Collection, further insurances amounting to £3,135 were effected on recent acquisitions.

The Committee having granted the necessary leave of absence, I, in company with Alderman John Lea, J.P., paid a visit, at my own expense, to the principal art galleries in Germany, the result of which I reported to the Art and Exhibitions Subcommittee at their meeting on the 5th September, as follows:—

“I have the honour to report that, taking advantage of “the leave of absence so kindly granted me by the Committee,
 “I paid a visit to a number of German Art Centres in June
 “last, viz.:—Hamburg, Berlin, Dresden, Nürnberg, München,
 “and Köln, also seeing the Ghent Exhibition on my home-
 “ward journey. In each city I visited the Permanent “Galleries, so far as not already known to me, and the current “Exhibitions, besides making the personal acquaintance of “a number of prominent German artists:—Professor Franz
 “Von Stück, Professor Hans Von Bartels, Professor Engel, “Professor Carl Langhammer, C. Agthe, Professor F.
 “Kallmorgen, etc. At Berlin I also came in touch with the “Governmental authorities interested in pictorial and ceramic
 “art, and obtained some interesting information in reference “to the means taken to advance the knowledge of German “art in foreign countries.

“The time available was by no means adequate to the “visitation of all the chief German galleries or as an “exhaustive study of the subject as I could have wished, but “I was able to systematise and extend considerably my know“ledge of German art, past and present, to an extent that “will be most helpful to me in my official work, and my “general art knowledge has been enriched by the opportunity “of seeing the pictures of other schools which are contained
 “in the German galleries, and of studying the galleries “themselves. The glimpse I have had of Germany has served
 “also to give me some knowledge of the extent to which art “enters into and affects the life of the people.

"I was fortunate in having Alderman Lea as my companion throughout. I anticipate that the experience will prove useful when we have occasion hereafter to deal with questions relating to German art.

"I have previously suggested for consideration that the Committee might with advantage provide a good and educational novelty in the Autumn Exhibition by having a room, or rooms, devoted to the art of a particular country, instead of a miscellaneous Continental room; and, after seeing what is being done by German artists of various schools, I am of opinion that German art may be recommended as a subject of a first experiment."

For various reasons, but chiefly because of difficulties with lenders caused by apprehensions as to the threatening attitude of a certain section of the community towards galleries of art, a proposed Loan Exhibition of pictures by Erskine Nicol, G. Paul Chalmers, Sam Bough, and Alexander Fraser, was indefinitely postponed.

On 11th April I was elected a member of the Council of the Imperial Arts League, from which I anticipate that benefit will result to the Gallery. The League, founded in 1909, has a membership of about 900, associated to provide a central organisation for the Empire, to which all members can appeal for advice or assistance in all matters of business in connection with any branch of the fine or applied arts. One of the principal results of the League's influence was their effective aid in bringing about, chiefly at my instigation, a modification in the recent Act of Parliament relating to copyright, by which the copyrights owned by public galleries are protected from infringement.

During the year the various Branch Libraries were visited. The frames of the pictures in the Wavertree Library were regilt and the canvases attended to.

The work of compiling a new and adequate catalogue of the Permanent Collection is now approaching conclusion, and it is expected that during the current year it will be in print.

W. L. Windus.]

BISHOP SHAXTON INTERVIEWING ANNE ASKEW IN PRISON.
[Presented by Alderman John Lea, J.P.]

Inscriptions were placed on the frames or mounts of 49 pictures.

The attendance of students during the year numbered 794. Five new students' tickets were granted.

During the year pictures were lent to the following:—National Gallery of British Art; Corporation Art Galleries, Oldham, Bury, Birmingham; Nottingham; Whitechapel Art Gallery; Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto; and the Exhibition of Dutch Mediaeval Art, Utrecht.

Rooms in the Gallery were used for the following special exhibitions:—

1. Art Studies Association, exhibition of children's works, 20th February to 8th March.

2. Liverpool Academy of Arts, members' annual exhibition, 13th May to 28th June.

3. Exhibition of Drawings by infants and young children attending Public Elementary Schools in connection with the National Conference of the Child Study Society, 22nd May to 7th June.

4. The Forty-third Autumn Exhibition of Modern Art, 4th October, 1913, to 3rd January, 1914.

On the occasion of the visit to the Gallery of the members of the Liverpool History Teachers' Association I delivered a lecture to the members on the Permanent Collection.

During the redecoration of the Town Hall in preparation for Their Majesties' visit to Liverpool the Gallery as placed at the disposal of the Lord Mayor for receptions, etc., and the important pictures from the Town Hall were stored in the Gallery.

The following pictures were deposited on loan:—Portrait of Her Majesty the Queen, by W. Llewellyn, A.R.A., the property of the Corporation, deposited until June; Portrait of the late Mr. Alison-Johnson as Master of the North Hereford Hounds, by the late C. W. Furse, A.R.A., deposited by Mrs. Alison-Johnson.

A collection of 63 paintings, 61 by modern French and Dutch artists, one by John Constable, R.A., and one by David Cox, deposited by Denys Hague, Esq., London. The collection includes some noteworthy examples of the art of the Barbizon and Modern Dutch Schools of Painters, and is of considerable interest to art lovers.

The following additions were made to the Permanent Collection during the year:—

The foregoing purchases, with the exception of those under the terms of the Lord Derby Bequest, were made, as in previous years, from the surplus of the Autumn Exhibition account.

Cordial thanks are due to the generous donors whose gifts, above recorded, have enhanced the value of the Permanent Collection.

There are now 1,364 items in the list of the Permanent Collection, of which 123 were at 31st December, 1913, on loan to public buildings in the City, viz.:—Town Hall 31, Newsham House 24, Central Library 21, Kirkdale Library 9, Everton Library 6, Waver-tree Library 14, Toxteth Library 4, St. Martins Hall 1, Calderstones House 13.

CATTLE WITH LANDSCAPE.

[Presented by Colonel W. Hall Walker, M.P.]

The Galleries were open on all week-days as follows:— November, December, January, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.; February, 10 a.m. to 4.30 p.m.; March and October, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; April to September, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; also on Saturdays until 8 o'clock throughout the year, and on Sundays from 2 to 4.30 p.m., during the months of October to May inclusive.

The Autumn Exhibition was open 78 days, from 4th October, 1913, to 3rd January, 1914. The catalogue comprised 2,551 items, as against 2,614 in 1912, and the collection was similar in plan to that of 1912, including amongst its special features a room devoted to Continental art, a complete exhibition of works (84 in number) by members of the Royal Society of Miniature Painters, an important black and white section, and a collective exhibit of works by members of the Pastel Society.

In Room G there was a special memorial collection of 35 pictures in oil and watercolour, and in Room X 9 drawings in black and white by the late Sir Lawrence Alma-Tadema, O.M., R.A., kindly lent by members of the artist's family and other owners.

The Denys Hague Collection of Modern French and Dutch artists was displayed in the same room.

A special exhibition of paintings and sculpture by Emil Fuchs, M.V.O., of 42 items, was arranged in Room N, which also proved a very attractive feature.

The Subscription Banquet to inaugurate the opening of the 43rd Annual Autumn Exhibition was held on Wednesday, 1st October. Ninety-seven ladies and gentlemen attended, including the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor and the Lady Mayoress (Sir Harmood and Lady Banner). The financial deficiency of £30 17s. was met by Alderman John Lea, J.P.

425 works were sold, of the catalogue value of £6,155 4s., as against 369 works of the catalogue value of £6,609 17s. 3d. in 1912. The shrinkage is accounted for by the absence of considerable purchases for the Permanent Collection other than those acquired under the terms of the Derby Bequest. The sales, however, to the outside public, including the Art Union prizewinners, were in excess of the previous year.

The illustrated edition of the Exhibition Catalogue undertaken by the Committee in 1912 was continued this year. The size was reduced to a more convenient one for visitors, and the illustrations were produced by a better and more artistic process than that formerly employed; including 6 mezzoprint reproductions of special pictures.

Notwithstanding the special attractions in this year's Exhibition, and the musical recitals on Wednesday evenings, the attendances showed a considerable falling off. The figures were as follows.—

A season ticket holders' soirée was held on 3rd October, with a programme of vocal and instrumental music.

A series of Friday evening entertainments was agreed upon. On 10th October, Mr. Haldane Macfall gave a lecture, entitled "The Splendid Wayfaring." Subsequently the entertainments were held on Wednesday evenings, and eight musical recitals were given during the period of the Exhibition.

By instruction of the Special Autumn Exhibition Committee, the usual evening opening from the end of October was suspended, and the Exhibition was open on Wednesdays from the beginning from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. continuously, admission 6d.: the hours on other days being 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., admission 1s. From 1st December the hours of opening were 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. continuously, admission after 5 o'clock 6d., except during the last week, when 3d. was charged in the evening.

On November 10th the Exhibition was placed at the disposal of Lady Derby for her reception of workers in connection with the Children's Happy Evenings Association.

Competitive tenders for catering were submitted by various firms, and that of Messrs. Mann and Crosthwaite was accepted. The new arrangements in the Café have proved satisfactory.

The Art Union, instituted in 1911, was attended in 1913 with an increased measure of success. The total sales of tickets amounted to £1,407. The number of prizes was 82 for £950, as against 70 for £800 in 1912, and the winning ticket holders selected from the Autumn Exhibition 161 works, the catalogue value of which amounted to £1,067 10s. The Art Union has thus in three years caused the sale of 346 works, for which the artists received £2,210.

The concession by the Art and Exhibitions Sub-Committee of a single free evening admission to the Exhibition during the month of December to each purchaser of an Art Union ticket was renewed.
